RED CROSS WARNS OF LURE FOR GIRLS

Name of Organization Being Used by White Slavers in New England

The insidious minions of the White Slave traffic have been luring young girls to destruction under the cloak of the Red Cross.

Deserted husbands and frantic mothers searching for missing women have scoured the streets of Boston in vain searching for their loved ones.

So serious has the situation become that the Red Cross organization itself has issued a warning and the District Attorney's office and the police department have joined in a vigorous crusade to break up the traffic.

All through Boston and New England have come reports of girls missing from home. The majority of them before leaving said they were about to enter Red Cross work. Investigation by relatives after some days passed brought no knowledge of their whereabouts. Red Cross officials appealed to never heard of the young women sought. Then followed the appeal to the police.

ONE GIRL RESCUED.

Assistant District Attorney Frederick M. J. Sheenan had Special Officers Joseph Mattle and John Brett of the Back Bay police station assigned to

Home Rule Bill's Date Uncertain, Says Law

By International News Service.

London, May 28.—Chancellor A. Bonar Law announced in the House of Commons today, at the resumption of the sessions following the Whitsuntide holiday, that he was unable to say when an Irish Home Rule bill would be introduced. He had no intention of making any statement regarding Ireland at this time, he added.

The British government is seeking a full report on the recent bombing of Red Cross hospitals behind the British front by German airmen when 300 persons were killed or wounded, the chancellor declared.

Mr. Law said that negotiations were being entered into for an exchange of prisoners.

$10,000,000 FOR RED CROSS IN NEW ENGLAND

New England Red Cross subscription is $10,000,000 and more today and probably will reach $10,-000,000 when all reports are in.

The quota for the district was $7,000,000. If the expected amount is obtained, therefore, the subscription will be 50 per cent. in excess of the allotment.

Eastern Massachusetts continues to lead the New England sub-divisions, for its total to date of $1,826,239 is almost double its quota. This is a gain of about $500,000 over the figures previously announced.

Taunton has added $30,000 to its quota. Lawrence $45,000, Peabody $14,-000, Beverly $48,000 and other cities amounts in like proportion. Lexington is among the towns which have gone past the 200 per cent. mark. Practically every town in the division is over its quota, and a total for the division of $2,100,000 is looked for when all returns are in.

Attleboro's War Chest drive has brought in $140,000, and a large return is expected for the Red Cross drive.

In honor of the brave men of the Grand Army of the Republic, our heroes of '61, the Boston AMERICAN will publish a great Patriotic Edition, in colors, next Thursday, Memorial Day. While the youth of the nation is battling abroad to help save the world from the plague of the Hun, the anniversary approaches which is sacred to those who preserved the nation itself. The Patriotic Edition of the Boston AMERICAN on Memorial Day will be published as tribute to the wearers of the Union Blue, whose heroism and sacrifice shall never be forgotten.

FOE DRIVEN BACK, SAYS PERSHING

Fine Offensive Spirit of U. S. Boys Wins Praise; Calls It "Notable Success"

By International News Service

Washington, May 28.—American casualties in the Picardy fighting yesterday, when the Germans penetrated our lines at two points, but were subsequently driven out, were light, said General Pershing in his communique issued this afternoon. The American commander's message amplifying his communique of last night also dwelt upon the "fine offensive spirit displayed by our troops at all times," and spoke of the action as a "notable success."

The text of today's communique follows:

"Dated May 27.

"Sec. B.—In Picardy, before daylight this morning, the enemy, after a violent bombardment with high explosives and gas, attacked our advance position in three detachments. In two places he penetrated small portions of our front line.

HUNS ARE DRIVEN OUT.

CONGRESSIONAL MEDAL FOR REV. J. B. DES VALLES

Springfield, May 28.—Word has been received here today that Rev. John B. Des Valles, Catholic chaplain of the 104th regiment, now in France, has been cited for the Congressional medal of honor for distinguished service on the field of battle. This is the highest honor conferred by the government upon chaplains. He has already received a war cross, but has been recommended for this honor by General Pershing. At Appremont he went to no man's land under heavy fire and persistently rescued the wounded, exposing himself to barrage fire at times and proving himself fearless in the midst of great danger.

PLAGUE IN SPAIN, KING ALFONSO STRICKEN

By International News Service.

London, May 28.—A mysterious epidemic is sweeping the whole of Spain, the Express learns from its Madrid correspondent.

It is estimated that 40 per cent. of the Spanish population is affected by the disease, which is paralysing the country's industries.

King Alfonso is confined to his bed. It is feared he has fallen victim to the plague.

The military manoeuvres have had to be halted.

The disease is described as being similar to influenza, though it differs in that the victims are seized by sudden fits.

Persons being stricken by convulsions in the streets has been a common sight since the epidemic started.

TWO YEARS' PROBATION FOR SOMERVILLE MAN

Buffalo, N. Y., May 28.—Edward Haney, thirty-seven, of Somerville, Mass., who was brought back from Somerville to Lockport, N. Y., on a charge of abandonment, pleaded guilty before Judge Fish and was released on probation for two years. Haney agreed to support his wife and child. Haney, who is a native of Lockport, holds a position in a restaurant at Somerville and it is said he will return to that city.

KITCHEN WILL STEER PROPOSED TAX BILL

Washington, May 28.—Declaring that he still was unconvinced that a revenue bill is necessary at this session of Congress, but that a refusal to pass such a measure would be misinterpreted in enemy countries, Claude Kitchen, majority leader of the House, told the lower body this afternoon that he would submit to the wishes of the Chief Executive and steer the proposed tax bill to final passage.

BILL PROHIBITS TEACHING GERMAN IN TERRITORIES

Washington, May 28.—Teaching of the German language in any of the schools in the District of Columbia and the territories administered by the Federal government would be prohibited under the terms of a bill introduced in the Senate by Senator King of Utah. Senator King is the author of the bill dissolving the German-American Alliance.

BREAK HUN LINE ON PIAVE

Italians Go Through to Depth of 750 Yards; Take Several Hundred Prisoners

By International News Service.

Rome, May 28.—The Italians have begun an offensive against the Austro-German armies on the southwestern (Italian) front.

The War Office announced today that on Sunday night the Italians broke through the Austro-German defences in the Caposile sector of the lower Piave to a depth of 750 yards. Seven officers and 433 prisoners were taken.

(A previous report issued by the Italian War Office told of numerous Italian thrusts all along the line and the capture of hundreds of prisoners. It is possible that the Italians may have beaten the Austro-Hungarians to it by launching a drive to lighten pressure against the allies on the western front.)

Italians attacked Austrian positions on May 25, captured the defences of Marocaro Pass, gained the summit of Monte Zigolin and Marocaro and drove out the enemy from the Paradiso Pass, says a semi-official announcement. The statement continues:

"The position on hill No. 2482 was surrounded. The whole garrison was destroyed and we captured two cable railways. North of Velon we blew up a large enemy ammunition dump."

Most of the mountain positions mentioned are near the Swiss Alps.

GEN. WOOD WILL OBEY ANY ORDERS GIVEN

Washington, May 28.—"I am a soldier, and I stand ready to obey any orders that are given me." This is the only statement Major-General Leonard Wood would make today in conection with the announcement that he had been deprived of his command of the 89th division.

General Wood went to the Capitol and conferred with Senator Warren of Wyoming, father-in-law of General Pershing. The purpose of the conference was not revealed.

INDIANA AVIATOR KILLED AT MINEOLA

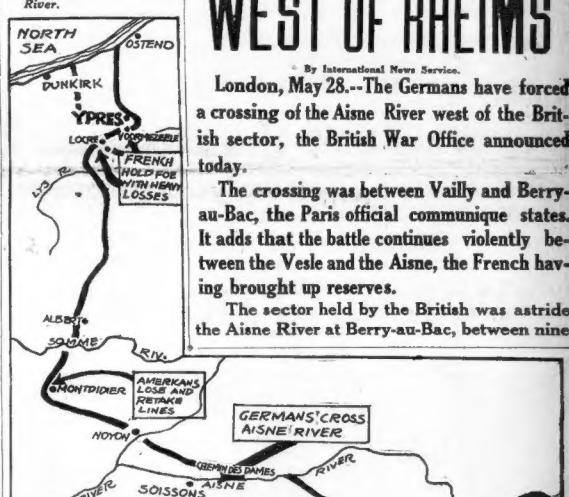
Mineola, L. I., May 28.—Charles B. Paswater, of Noblesville, Ind., a cadet aviator, was killed at the aviation field tody when he fell 2,000 feet to the ground in a "tail spin." Paswater had made several successful flights and was due to receive a commission as lieutenant in two weeks.

12 GERMAN AIRPLANES FAIL TO REACH PARIS

Paris, May 28.—Twelve German airplanes attempted to raid Paris last night and some bombs were dropped in outlying districts, but the city proper was not reached. The danger signal was sounded at 10:45 and the all clear at 11:45.

First Hun Successes Shown by Map

The Germans Are Admitted to Have Effected Crossing of the Aisne River.



Following British and French retirements along the famous Chemin des Dames height, the Teuton forces have fought their way over the Aisne. Here the British held a sector astride the stream at Berry-au-Bac, ten miles northwest of Rheims. Near the top of the map is illustrated the other thrust, between Locre and Vooremez eele.

TERRIFIC COMBAT WEST OF RHEIMS

By International News Service.

London, May 28.—The Germans have forced a crossing of the Aisne River west of the British sector, the British War Office announced today.

The crossing was between Vailly and Berry-au-Bac, the Paris official communique states. It adds that the battle continues violently between the Vesle and the Aisne, the French having brought up reserves.

The sector held by the British was astride the Aisne River at Berry-au-Bac, between nine and ten miles northwest of Rheims. The British front was apparently between ten and eleven miles wide, stretching from Bermicourt to Craonnelle, in the district of the Chemin des Dames.

text of the British War Office sent follows:

inuous pressure was maintained by the enemy all day yesterday against the British troops engaged on the Aisne front. Severe fighting is still going on along the line of the British sector. On our front the 51st Division, in touch with the allies, held its battle positions throughout the day and successfully repulsed good enemy attempts to advance.

FIRE ACROSS AISNE.

"At the end of the day the weight of the enemy's attacks carried his troops across the Aisne to the west of the British sector and compelled us to withdraw left of our line to fall back.

"The enemy is developing attacks of great strength along the whole of the Aisne battle front.

"On the Lys River (Flanders) front local fighting recommenced this morning in the area east of Lake Dickebusch.

"On the remainder of the British front German prisoners were taken in raids at different points.

"During the night the artillery was active on both sides."

FRENCH RESERVES ARRIVE

The text of the Paris communique follows:

"Reinforced by new troops, the Germans have crossed the Aisne between Vailly and Berry-au-Bac.

"Although facing very superior forces, the French and British are drawing back in perfect order.

"A furious battle is in progress between the Aisne and the Vesle, reserves having been brought up to the year.

"In the Champagne, on the Weevre plain and on the right bank of the Meuse, heavy shelling is in progress.

Vailly is on the Aisne, twenty miles west of Berry-au-Bac. The Vesle, a small stream flowing past Rheims, is five miles south of the Aisne.

Retirements Carried Out in Perfect Order on Aisne Battle Front

By FRANK CHARLTON,
International News Service Cable Editor.

So far there has been no slackening in the German pressure against the France-British lines on the Aisne river front—after the Germans launched their "surprise offensive" on Monday morning—but the allied lines are holding intact.

There have been retirements by both the British and French, but they were carried out in perfect order, despite the frantic effort of the boches to break through.

By a series of powerful but costly assaults, west of the British held section, the Germans have succeeded in forcing a crossing of the Aisne river (probably in the district of Pont Arcy).

New battles are developing all along the 33-mile front from Brimont (which is north of Rheims) to the sector of the forest of Pinon, between 7 and 8 miles north of Soissons.

It seems, however, that the Germans are exerting their strongest pressure south of the Chemin des Dames, at the point where the battle line lies nearest the Aisne river.

Evidently the Germans are attempting a flanking operation against the British army which reinforced the French in this new important theatre of combat, in the hope of separating the allied forces.

A salient extends into the German lines north of Rheims, the apex of which (Berry-au-Bac) is held by British forces, or was held by them at last reports.

The British front, which had been bearing sledgehammer blows with traditional gallantry, originally extended from Bermicourt, which is five miles north of Rheims, across the Aisne River at Berry-au-Bac to Craonnelle, according to Monday nights report of the British War Office.

This gave the British approximately ten miles of the front to hold, but since the slight British retirement, it is likely that the British line has been shortened and condensed for strategic reasons, until it is now less than ten miles wide.

Berry-au-Bac, which lies on the Aisne River, is about four miles from Bermicourt. Craonnelle is approximately six miles west of Berry-au-Bac. Pont Arcy, to which sector the French retired, is from six to seven miles southwest of Craonnelle, but only about four miles due south from the Chemin des Dames fighting front as it existed yesterday morning. Pont Arcy is twenty miles east of Soissons and sixty-seven miles northeast of Paris.

In view of the tremendous efforts which the Germans have been making on the Aisne front—aiming their blows in the general direction of Paris—there is little doubt that the Boches intend to carry out a drive no less vigorously than those launched on the Picardy and Flanders battle fronts.

At the same time it is believed that another great stroke is impending in Flanders. The British War Office reported today that there had been a renewal of local operations in the hill country east of Lake Dickebush (in Belgium southwest of Ypres), where the Teutons are striving for high ground now held by the French.

For the time being all public interest centres in the situation on the Aisne, to the exclusion of the comparatively minor events in the north.

The German Crown Prince is employing enormous numbers of men, and is sacrificing his soldiers with characteristic German brutality and callousness.

This was the sixty-ninth day of the German grand offensive—which has now developed into a triple drive—and the second day of the Aisne offensive.

BERNSTORFF'S SON IS ON TRIAL AS LOVE THIEF

American wife of Count Christian G. von Bernstorff, son of the former German ambassador to this country. She was Mrs. Marguerite Vivian Burton Thomason of Burlington, N. J. Divorced from Baron von Radeck of the German army, she married Count Bernstorff. The baron is now suing Bernstorff. Photograph by International Film Service.

The beautiful American wife of Count Christian Gunther von Bernstorff, son of the former German ambassador to the United States, is the central figure in a love suit to the Berlin courts brought against the Countess, her husband and others by the Countess' former husband, Baron Von Radeck.

The Countess was Mrs. Marguerite Vivian Burton Thomason of Burlington, N. J., prior to her marriage to Baron von Radeck.

The Baron charges in brief that the young Count von Bernstorff treacherously seized opportunity, while Von Radeck was in the trenches, to make love to the Baroness von Radeck, that the Von Radecks were divorced as a result of this and that Von Bernstorff spread reports that VonRadeck was a spy.

DISMISSED FROM ARMY.

Von Radeck finally charged that Von Bernstorff and fourteen others had not only caused the Von Radeck divorce, but had brought about the dismissal of the Baron from the Prussian army.

Involved in the case is an assertion by Von Radeck that he caught his wife in the Count's home, slapped the Count's face, but that the Count suggested divorce instead of a duel.

The details of the case, as contained in dispatches today, via Holland, disclose accusations of domestic intrigue sensational even for the Prussian nobility.

Among the sixteen defendants is Prince Albert, brother of the reigning Duke of Schleswig-Holstein.

After a preliminary hearing of Baron von Radeck's action the presiding judge adjourned the case on the ground that some features of it were not plain to him at present.

Baron von Radeck married Mrs. Thomason of New Jersey in 1912. When the war came the Baron went to the front. At the opening court hearing in Berlin the Baron's lawyer stated that while the Baron was in the German trenches he received a letter from his wife saying she desired her freedom.

SLAPPED THE COUNT'S FACE.

Von Radeck hurried to Berlin and, according to his counsel, saw his wife going into von Bernstorff's residence. The infuriated Baron knocked at the door, forced his way and heard his wife say to von Bernstorff: "Put your revolver in your pocket."

Expecting a duel, as a matter of course, the Baron reported the circumstances to a military court of honor. But von Bernstorff sought the Count two days later and suggested that the von Radecks be divorced, so the Baroness could wed the Count. The Count also asked that the Baron get General Von Moltke, chief of the general staff, to intervene in the duel proceedings. Von Moltke refused.

The Baron challenged the Count and demanded investigation of charges of espionage which, the Baron said, the Count had spread against him.

Meanwhile the Baroness had filed action for divorce. The divorce was granted, but to the Baron instead of the Baroness.

Captain Apologizes for U-Boat Attack on Steamer

By International News Service.

London, May 28.—A U-boat attack on a Spanish steamer resulting in the loss of three lives and culminating in an apology by the submarine commander, is reported by Reuter's Madrid correspondent.

The dispatch says the U-boat fired on the Spanish steamer Maria Fia, killing the captain and two others, and then aided in the rescue of the panicky passengers. A boat was upset in the excitement. The submarine commander then expressed his regret over the attack, saying he did not know the nationality of the vessel.

MISS ELY TO BE BRIDE OF MAJOR NICHOLS' SON

Miss Corina Codman Ely of the 1916 Sewing Circle is soon to wed Hall Nichols, son of Major and Mrs. Edward H. Nichols of No. 294 Marlborough street. The announcement was made today by her mother, Mrs. C. C. Ely of No. 146 Marlborough street. Miss Ely is the granddaughter of Mrs. James M. Codman of Brookline. She has been devoting her time to Red Cross work. Mr. Nichols has finished two years at Tech, and is leaving for the Engineer Reserve Officers' training camp at Fort Lee, Virginia.

Mr. Nichols' father, Major Nichols, now chief surgeon with Base Hospital No. 7 abroad, is better known to Bostonians as Dr. Nichols, the former physician in attendance on Harvard athletic teams.

BOCHES BEATEN IN 3 RAIDS ON AMERICANS

German trenches. Heavy losses were inflicted on the enemy, and some prisoners were taken. Our casualties are light. In one case an American was taken prisoner, but was rescued in the counter-attack and all of his captors were killed.

"Our troops displayed a fine offensive spirit at all times, and have achieved a notable success.

"During the early hours of the morning in the Woevre, a hostile force, supported by violent artillery fire, attempted a raid upon our lines. This force, which was composed of three officers and about 100 men, well equipped with light machine guns, blew up our wires and attempted to capture portions of our trenches.

"They were completely repulsed by our infantry and our artillery, leaving one officer and four men dead in our trenches and one wounded prisoner in our hands.

GIVE ANSWER IN BULLETS.

"Fifteen or twenty dead were observed near our wire and ten stretchers were seen being carried from this point. Here also our losses appear to be relatively light.

"Yesterday in Lorraine the enemy was unusually active in bombarding our trenches with gas and in harassing fire. On one occasion a patrolling party approached our lines with cries of 'Kamerad,' but when our men rose to receive them they opened rifle fire. One of the hostile detachments was killed and his body secured."

It was pointed out by War Department officials here this afternoon that past experiences have taught American soldiers that they can place no faith in the Germans' cry of "Kamerad." In the beginning, it was said, several American lives were sacrificed because they believed in the honor of the Hun.

OLD TRICK EXPOSED.

"It is an old trick," said one high army officer. "They worked it on the allies for years—or as long as they could get away with it.

We know of scores of instances where German soldiers were selected to advance in an attitude of surrender, with the familiar cry upon their lips, only to be camouflaging a mad men behind them, ready to fire upon whomever advanced. In this way they have managed to secure many prisoners before it became evident that they could not be trusted."

Three Raids Repulsed By American Troops; Heavy Boche Losses

By BERT FORD.

Staff Correspondent of the International News Service.

With the American Army in France, May 28.—The Germans made three raids on the American lines in Picardy for the purpose, military experts believe, of feeling out the fighting strength of the Americans, and were well trounced for their curiosity.

The first attack was made at 6 o'clock in the morning, when 600 shock troops of the enemy commanded by one officer reached the first lines of the American front. They were quickly driven back, the Americans following up the repulse by a counter attack supported by their artillery. The enemy suffered great losses. A large number of prisoners were taken by the Americans.

ATTACK MADE IN FOG.

The Germans made the attack through the thick heavy land fog of the morning. The sun coming out, quickly dispelled the fog and enabled the American soldiers to get a good view of the Boches. The counter-attack by the Americans carried them quite a distance within the lines of the enemy, and they inflicted considerable damage before they were recalled.

The American infantry attack was accompanied by grenade and bayonet work. The hand-to-hand fighting was very hot and showed the bravery and coolness of the Americans.

One American soldier had an arm shot away, but pluckily kept in the thick of the fighting, hardly realizing his injury until the fleeing Germans allowed him to take thought of himself.

The Americans outmatched the Germans at every point. Previous to the attacks the Boches had bombarded the American front with mustard gas.

SHELL U. S. HOSPITALS.

Previous to the raid the Germans had also hurled so many high explosive shells around the field hospitals that it was believed to be a deliberate attempt on the part of the Teutons to wreck them. Both hospitals are filled with wounded, and the bombardment incensed the American troops.

In addition to the shelling of the hospital zones German aviators nightly drop bombs all around the hospitals and the rear line villages where the wounded are being moved. A cross on the Smith College girls' and American ambulance drivers are working every night in the area that is bombed.

Three nine-inch shells almost interrupted a funeral back of the American lines on Sunday.

"We held the funerals at 4 o'clock daily," Major Walter L. Dickson of Kansas City, a regular army chaplain, said. "We were just starting for the cemetery Sunday when the shells began dropping big and small around us. The cortege consisted of three ambulances, each carrying flag draped coffins. I was walking just behind.

BAND MEN PLAY ON.

"The band was playing the funeral march when I heard the shriek of the nine-inchers overhead. Three broke so close that splinters flew about me. The band's pluck was amazing. They played on as if nothing was happening. I could not even detect a discordant sound.

"We trudged through to the cemetery, and if the boche thought he could stop our funeral he was mistaken.

"Women and children timidly waited in the doors and gates of their homes with bouquets, which they handed to the bearers. They were scared by the shells, but not too scared to pick wild flowers and pay a tribute to the dead.

"They can't intimidate Americans by such methods. They may kill and maim, but they never will lick them. The spirit of our officers and men cheers me. If a shell picks me off, I'm with his grandmother; and that's where someone else will go on with my work."

VOTE FOR PROBE OF STATE LABOR BOARD METHODS

Following the charge that the State Board of Labor and Industries had "hushed up" cases in which manufacturers violated the labor and health laws, the legislative committee on Public Service today reported a resolve providing for an investigation of "the methods employed by the board." The board consists of Alfred W. Donovan of Rockland, Alfred H. Lucsey of Fitchburg, Samuel Ross of New Bedford, Mary H. Dewey of Cambridge and John T. Crowley of Abington.

INDIAN HELD IN $500 FOR KNIFE ASSAULT

Charged with assault and battery with a dangerous weapon, Charles Prospers was held in $500 until June 5 in Municipal Court. Prospers, who is an Indian, is alleged to have engaged in an argument with Joseph Isham and John Ballant, also Indians, in front of the North Station. He is alleged to have stabbed the other two men. Gallant is still in a critical condition at the Relief Hospital.

Germans Again Open Fire on Paris With Long Range Gun

By International News Service.

Paris, May 28.—The bombardment of Paris by long range German cannon was renewed today.

Three persons were killed and fourteen injured in the bombardment of the city on Monday.

ADOPTED YOUTH HAS STRANGE HISTORY

By International News Service.

New York, May 28.—Left motherless when five years old, a soldier at eleven, head of an importing firm at seventeen, an emigrant from Colombia to the United States at twenty-four, and at twenty-eight the adopted son of a French nobleman, is the life history in brief of Victor M. Gomez Velasquez, now Gomez-Belmont, as brought out up to date today by Surrogate Fowler, who approved the order of adoption.

Miss Blanca de Belmont of No. 51 West 51st street, who is said to be a member of a noble old French family, explained her reasons for desiring to adopt the young Colombian in an affidavit filed with the court as follows:

"I am fifty-five years old. My husband and only child, a boy, long since departed this life, and my nearest relatives are my sisters and their children in France. Since I have been in this country I have not been in personal touch with my relatives and have casually and I have few friends here with the result that my interest has become altogether too self-centered and its consequence my life is extremely lonely.

"I have known Victor M. Gomez Velasquez for about a year, during the last two months of which time he has resided in my home. We have found ourselves congenial to each other, and a strong affection exists between us. It would, I believe, be to his temporal and moral advantage to be adopted because I intend fully to be helpful to him in a material and every other way, as would a mother toward her son.

"The adoption of adults is a common practice in France, where no adoption is allowed unless the person to be adopted is at least twenty-one years old."

Gomez-Belmont sets forth in an affidavit that he was born in Retiro, State of Antioquira, Colombia, South America, on Nov. 25, 1889; that his mother died when he was four or five years old, and that he thereafter lived for a time with his godfather and later with his grandmother; and that he came to New York city in 1916 and has ever since resided here.

"WITNESSES LIED ABOUT ME," CRIES GRACE LUSK IN DESPAIR

JUDGE DECLARES SLAYER OF MRS. ROBERTS WAS IN RIGHT MIND

By International News Service.

Waukesha, Wis., May 28.—Miss Grace Lusk, who shot to death Mrs. Mary Newman Roberts, after she had become infatuated with Dr. David Roberts, her husband, with the evidence in the case all in, is in despair of being freed.

Stepping into the judge's room after adjournment of court, she said to a reporter in answer to a question:

"Oh, how can I have hopes when I face the certain things that I face."

The defendant's eyes were streaming with tears.

"I have had hopes, and of course, I still continue to have some flickerings, but it is very hard to keep on fighting and hoping.

"Everything would have been all right I am sure, had not three witnesses gone on the stand and lied about me.

"I don't know what the verdict will be, and I am so tired of it all that I don't seem to care much."

KNOWS RIGHT AND WRONG.

Upon being called to the stand Dr. Frank Studley, Milwaukee alienist, testified he did not believe that the defendant was or had been, suffering from insanity, and declared the disposition to suicide was almost always lacking in paranoia victims.

Asked to tell the jury why he believed Miss Lusk to be sane, the alienist replied:

"Because in the hypothetical question I find no evidence of her insanity. In the question there is no challenging the possibility of her not being able to judge between right and wrong. It was the absence of any symptom indicating mental weakness that led me to my opinion."

On being cross-questioned, Dr. Studley testified that the facts that Miss Lusk's mother and grandmother were of unsound mind by no means necessarily meant she was a like sufferer.

"These things often skip several generations," he said.

COURT CALLS HER SANE.

Judge Lueck startled the lawyers when, in answer to a request by the prosecutor that an immediate inquiry be made into the insanity of the defendant, he replied:

"I assure you, I don't think Miss Lusk is, or ever was, insane."

The court's declaration was made in the wake of testimony of Dr. Herbert W. Powers, alienist, who had said that in his opinion Miss Lusk was suffering from autoinism, a dangerous form of insanity, at the time she killed Mrs. Roberts.

Dr. Powers testified he was certain Miss Lusk was the victim of a monomania.

"The names Mrs. Roberts called Miss Lusk caused a dissociation of ideas," he said. "Subsequently her acts were dictated subconsciously. It is also very possible Miss Lusk suffered from a hereditary insanity taint."

Dr. Roberts, recalled to the stand as the first witness in rebuttal, testified he had never told Miss Lusk his home life was unhappy or that he contemplated securing a divorce.

The case will probably be in the jury's hands by tonight, as it is thought by that time counsel on both sides shall have finished their closing arguments.

Grace Lusk, as a Girl, Was Ambitious and Sensible, Looking to Practical Things

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

Waukesha, Wis., May 28.—A day or two ago Grace Lusk's father slipped into my hand, during recess, his daughter's trial for the killing of Mrs. Mary Roberts, a picture of her taken in her graduation year.

She was 17 years old at the time and had just completed her course of study at the Waukesha High School. In those days Grace Lusk wore her pretty brown hair piled high on her head and she looked out on the world with an eager and inquiring gaze.

Of course the gown was white and so were her gloves, a great majority of girls made as pretty a picture of sweet and serious girlhood, as it would be possible to imagine.

I doubt if at that time Grace Lusk had ever had a party frock or had gone to a dance. All her eager young ambition was centered on getting an education that, in time, would enable her to teach in the High School.

LOOKED TO EDUCATION.

Her father had told her that she might choose a graduation present and she had selected not a wrist watch, not a pearl pin, nor a piano—but the money to help her through the Normal School the following Autumn.

She was, you see, the type of a girl who is never content to rest on her oars. As soon as she accomplished one thing in the way of scholarship, she was determined to push on and acquire something else.

So she entered the Normal School, and, as usual, kept at the head of her classes.

Then her father's health broke down and for want of the necessary funds, she was obliged to stop.

But this did not daunt her and for as long as there was a remote chance of getting a school to teach in, she drove fourteen miles, one day, to take the examination, and after she had written out her papers, she drove another fourteen miles to the county seat and took a second examination in the hope that she might get the second school, if she failed to get the first.

TOOK THE BETTER POSITION.

This happened to be a case where perseverance was doubly rewarded, for she passed both examinations and was offered a choice of the two schools. And, of course, she accepted the one that paid the more money.

From this school she earned enough money to take her through college, and teaching sometimes, studying sometimes, and sometimes doing both, she put in the next few years until her health broke down and a prolonged attack of neuritis obliged her to stop teaching for a couple of years.

It seems too bad that with so much pluck and persistence, such an iron will and the capacity for such self-sacrifice, that a fate like this should have overtaken her.

And I, for one, shall always believe that if the great temptation had not come, when she was ill and incapable of keeping up her old interest in books and work, that she would never have succumbed to it.

Perhaps a little wholesome fun might have saved the day, but Grace Lusk was living with an excellent, but an austere woman, who disapproved of a friendly game of cards, dancing or the simple relaxations that are as necessary to life as food or sleep.

There wasn't anything particular to do around Waukesha but to rest and get well, and the little horse doctor seemed always to have been on hand with a motor.

If Faust were to be re-written with a modern setting, I'm sure the casket of jewels would be replaced in favor of a gloves. A great majority of good girls can withstand the temptation of jewels, but many succumb to the ease and comfort of a motor car.

Worldly girls, especially, they are so tired poor things with the toil and drudge of the long day, that a lift in a comfortable car doesn't seem very dangerous.

WARNING TO GIRLS.

But it is best with dangers, and girls ought never to accept these favors from men, unless they are acquainted with them and know they can be trusted.

One has a painful sensation of life tiring to something one ought not to hear, in attending the sessions of the Lusk trial.

Every gesture and mannerism of the school teacher indicates reserve, and up to the time of the Roberts episode, her life was so fine and courageous it seems doubly hard that the veil has to be rent and every thought and deed of hers must be made the subject of legal battles, and entertainment for the mob.

It is certainly a case to make every girl examine her heart and if there is the image of an unworthy man enshrined there, to pluck it out, no matter what it costs.

ANNA HELD WANTS TO LIVE UNTIL FRANCE IS FREE

Anna Held, the noted French actress, as she looked at the time of her last appearance in Boston

Anna Held, at the height of her career,

By International News Service.

New York, May 28.—Anna Held's famous eyes may soon close forever. But before she dies the noted French actress wants to see her dear France free of war.

Yesterday, sitting by the window in her room in the Savoy Hotel, overlooking Fifth avenue and Central Park, she said:

"But not yet will I die."

"There is something that I must live for. I cannot grow better than I am—no. My good doctors say it. It is true—yes. Anna sings and dances no more. But for a while she lives. For a while until certain things happen—about France.

"I will live until my dear France is free again. You shall see. I will make myself live until the Huns are driven back across the Rhine and my country herself is once more. To go to the hospitals of Paris and sing for those blesses—that I would much like to do. But I shall not. Not again shall I see Paris. I shall die here. But before I die—you shall behold—France again will be altogether France.

"I will live until there is no Kaiser on a throne in Germany—until our great General Foch has received from Hindenburg his sword in surrender—until France is wholly victorious.

"And then, I wish to rest in the soil of France, where the brave ones rest who fell at the Marne and the Somme and Verdun."

OFFICERS TO WATCH HARVARD SOLDIERS WORK

Twenty retired army officers, in Cambridge today for a course in military matters, will witness a practical demonstration of a trench attack at Fresh Pond with the Harvard R. O. T. C. furnishing the advance movement.

Two companies will relieve theoretical soldiers in the Harvard trenches, after which they will go over the top debouching in two distinctive waves. One feature of the demonstration is expected to be getting under cover in shell holes, which are to be represented by blankets.

The officers, who are detailed at New England and Middle Atlantic state colleges, will hold their conference this evening at the Harvard Club.

MAYOR OUSTS PATROLMAN T. W. DOWD

Dismissed Revere Man Threatens to Continue Police Fight by Appeal to Court

Patrolman Thomas W. Dowd of Revere, whose issue with Mayor Alfred D. Hall on the proper conduct of a policeman has attracted State-wide attention, was discharged by the Mayor in a letter read to the day squad at morning rollcall today by Chief John J. Dyer.

His dismissal follows a hearing given Dowd by the Mayor last Friday and Saturday on the Mayor's charges of conduct unbecoming an officer and detrimental to departmental discipline.

Dowd is expected to continue his fight, for he has declared that if discharged he would appeal to Chelsea District Court, which has jurisdiction in Revere.

His counsel is Associate Justice Samuel J. Cutler of that court. In event of an appeal being taken Mayor Hall and the City of Revere will be represented by City Solicitor Andrew A. Casassas.

ON FORCE EIGHT YEARS.

Dowd has been on the force eight years, is married, has three children and is popular among the patrolmen. During Dowd's suspension of more than a month his weekly pay was contributed to him by members of the force. For several years he has been delegate from the department to the Massachusetts Police Relief Association conventions. Thus he gained wide acquaintance among the men of city and town police forces.

The association offered him the services of its own counsel in his contest with Mayor Hall.

The specific counts in Mayor Hall's charges against Dowd and Dowd's defence against each were:

1—Twice failing to report for duty after Superior Court service. Dowd said he was kept late at court.

2—Thrice failing to pull duty calls. Dowd said once he was summoning witnesses. Again the call box had been knocked from its post by an automobile and, on the third occasion, he telephoned the station instead of ringing in.

DENIES INSULTING REMARKS.

3—Making insulting remarks about a superior—denied.

4—Insubordinate language to Chief Dyer. Dowd claimed it was mostly argument about handling a certain case and that he didn't mean it in insubordinate manner. The chief said Dowd said he reserved the right to criticize the chief.

5—Failure to investigate a pool-room when ordered to a certain day. Dowd said he was off duty on that day.

Dowd is a finger-print expert, has attended the police expert lectures at Harvard and is studying law. He has made statements concerning the greater need of general police efficiency.

CAN A GIRL 18 LIVE ON $20,000 A YEAR?

Lorena Carroll Thinks She Can, Although Now Struggling Along on Only $12,000

By International News Service.

New York, May 28.—"Why young men don't marry" was strikingly answered in a petition submitted today to Surrogate Fowler by Miss Lorena Carroll, declaring that she must have at least $20,850 every year to educate and maintain herself.

Miss Carroll, who was the only daughter of the late millionaire horseman, Joseph D. Carroll, head of the firm of Fish, Doerr & Carroll, is within a few days of eighteen and a student at a fashionable school near Philadelphia.

Her petition asks an increase of her $12,500 allowance from her father's $1,100,000 estate. She had her allowance increased from $7,500 to $12,500 for one year on May 13, 1917, and from $5,000 to $7,500 on May 5, 1916.

ENOUGH TO STAY IN "SWIM."

The reason given for the latest request for more money is that when her guardian, her mother, filed her accounting March 12, 1918, it developed that she had expended the preceding year on her daughter's education and support $3,686.52 more than the legal allowance.

Besides, says the young woman, the war income tax, which did not figure in previous grants of income, must now be taken into account. It amounts to $450, she says.

In addition to her share of the rent at her mother's home, No. 590 West End avenue, $2,000, Miss Carroll must pay out the following sums to keep her head above the "social swim":

For clothing, tailored dresses, school dresses, coats, sport coats, sweaters, evening gowns, party gowns, lingeries, shoes, stockings, skirts, shirtwaists, jewelry, hats, auto coats, furs, toilet articles, perfumes, parasols, ribbons, collars, laces, manicuring, shampooing and hair dressings—$3,000.

NO END OF EXPENSE.

For household expenses—$4,000.

For insurance, etc.—Bonds for her guardian, burglary insurance, and insurance on household effects—$850.

Upkeep of her touring and limousine cars, including insurance and club dues—$6,000.

For pleasure," including traveling, rent of Summer cottage, railroad fares, sociables, hotel bills, luncheons, dinners, dances and theatre parties—$3,000.

The last item is $1,000 to pay for the physicians, opticians and dentists she visits yearly and for the drugs and medicines they prescribe.

Action on Miss Carroll's petition will be heard tomorrow.

$7,200 FOR RED CROSS IN NAMING OF SHIPS

Two of the new $500-ton Emergency Fleet Corporation steamers now under construction in New England yards will be named the City of Newton and Roy H. Beattie, respectively. Mayor Childs of Newton bid $4,000 for the former and Earle P. Charlton, of Fall River, vice president of the F. W. Woolworth Company, bid $1,200. Mr. Charlton desired to name one of the vessels after his friend Beattie, who is assistant manager of the woodon ship division of the Emergency Fleet Corporation. The vessels will be ready for launching within a few weeks and this event will be the occasion for ceremonies which, with contributions thus made will go toward the second Red Cross War Fund.

CHARGED WITH FALSE CLAIM ON GOVERNMENT

Henry M. Bowen of Dorchester was arraigned before Judge Morton on a federal indictment charging him with three counts with making false claims against the government.

Bowen, who was formerly a member of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice, pleaded not guilty to the charge and furnished bail of $300. It is alleged that the claims made by Bowen against the government grew out of expenses while he was performing duty for the Department of Justice. The amount of money involved is placed at $27, but the $27 was thrown in, it is said, by the government in order to cover the claim.

Milford, May 28.—George A. Sherbourne, who for many years operated an express business between this town and Boston, died at his home here today, at the age of seventy-four. He is survived by a widow. Mr. Sherbourne was a member of the local G. A. R. post.

COAL SHORTAGE AGAIN FACED BY NEW ENGLAND

Production Is Low, Rates Higher and Labor Scarcity Complicates the Situation

With not enough hard or soft coal to go around, with rail and water rates appreciably increased by the new railroad rates, Boston and New England are confronted with a shortage and increased prices next Winter.

James J. Storrow, fuel administrator for New England, says the new rates will raise the price on all anthracite coming to Boston and New England about 50 cents. The price on bituminous coal also will be affected, especially as much of it comes to Boston in railroad-owned barges.

Fuel Administrator Garfield at Washington does not make any concealment of the prospect that there will be a shortage. He is optimistic, though, over the anthracite situation.

FIGURES SOUND A WARNING.

Figures sound the warning that the greatest conservation must be used to avoid the serious situation of last Winter.

The country needs, it is estimated, 600,000,000 tons of soft coal the coming coal year. Only 554,000,000 tons were produced last year. The most hopeful figures, therefore, show a shortage of more than 50,000,000 tons of bituminous to be made up.

The anthracite needs are placed at something like 125,000,000 tons, and only 90,000,000 tons were produced last year. Figures of the coal officials and the Geological Survey give little hope that these figures will be surpassed this year, especially since the shortage of labor is apt to be more acute.

MUST SUPPLY HOMES.

"The requirements of the year for bituminous coal as ascertained by government experts," says Mr. Garfield, "indicate that the production will fall considerably short. The Fuel Administration is devoting its efforts toward removing as far as possible the deliveries of coal for domestic purposes and essential war industries from the freight congestion on the railroads that is sure to come with the Winter season."

Bituminous production for the week ended May 18 is estimated at 11,732,000 tons, a drop of nearly 100,000 tons from the preceding week. The banner week produced 11,825,000 tons.

"Even if this rate of production could be maintained," says Dr. Garfield, "the total output will fall far short of the estimated requirements for the year."

EX-MAYOR CAMPBELL TO RUN WAR EXPOSITION

Chester I. Campbell, ex-Mayor of Quincy and widely known as a promoter of industrial, automobile and patriotic expositions, is in Washington, where he was summoned to take charge of the government's Allied War Expositions, which are to be conducted in the large cities of the country, beginning July 1.

Mr. Campbell has made one requirement dependent on his acceptance of the task. He insists he be allowed to carry out his plans for the annual outing of cripples and orphaned children on Nantasket Beach on Wednesday, June 5.

Mr. Campbell conferred in Washington with Wendall McMahill, director of the expositions, on plans for the presentation of the exhibition of war relics taken by the allies from the enemy.

The present plan calls for expositions beginning July 1 in San Francisco, thence moving by easy stages across the country, including visits to Los Angeles, Seattle, Denver, Chicago, Boston and New York.

FREE PEST BOTHERS NEWTON BUG HUNTERS

Considerable damage is being done to trees throughout several sections of Newton, and an insect pest, against which is giving the Newton Forestry Department more trouble than either the gypsy or brown-tail moth. Newton is the only city in the State which has been visited by the pest and from the information gathered by City Forester Colton it appears to be the only community in the country in which the insect has gained a foothold.

The fact that the insect, which is similar to a caterpillar, rolls itself in the leaves and makes its cocoon inside to reach them by the ordinary poisonous sprays.

MINISTER, 83 YEARS OLD, TO WED A DIVORCEE

The Rev. Charles H. Hanaford, eighty-three years old, a retired Methodist clergyman of South Lancaster, and Mrs. Hattie A. Newell, fifty-eight years old, a resident of 25 Milford street, South End, are soon to be married in People's Temple, where Mr. Hanaford has officiated on several occasions during the year.

The marriage of the clergyman and his bride-to-be began when he became acquainted with the latter's people, where Mrs. Getchell was a member of the choir and active in the Sunday school.

SPRECKELS MUST GIVE FACTS ABOUT SUGAR

New York, May 28.—Claus Spreckels, president of the Federal Sugar Refining Company, summoned before Allan Fox, chief of the License Bureau of the Federal Food Board, was asked to explain the failure of the Federal Sugar Refining Company to make the monthly reports of its business for November and December, 1917, and January, February and April of this year. Mr. Spreckels was unable to explain the delay. He agreed to make an inquiry and he was given until Friday to report.

Set House on Fire to Get Sleepy Husband Out of Bed

By International News Service.

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 28.—Mrs. Patrick Nolan told Fire Marshal Brophy that her husband was possessed with an unconquerable antipathy to getting up in the morning and going to work.

Mrs. Nolan had been arrested on a charge of attempted arson. She said, as her five children clung to her skirts:

"I threatened to pour scalding water over him. He only grunted. I heated up some water on the stove, making all the noise I could. He never flickered an eyelash.

"Then it was good and hot I threw it over him. He only jerked his shoulder and snuggled down on the pillow.

"I went to the Domestic Relations Court, but the judge couldn't tell how to get my husband out of bed. There was only one remedy."

The remedy was a bundle of rags, a few drops of kerosene and a lighted match. That combination near his bed brought Patrick out of his trance.

SERIOUS RIOTS IN BOHEMIAN CAPITAL

Citizens Demonstrate Against Austrian Rule—More Than 800 Arrested

By International News Service.

Washington, May 28.—Bohemian national anti-Austrian demonstrations in Prague were renewed with such violence Friday night that the police, headed by the Imperial Lieutenant in person, were forced to charge the manifestants. News of these renewed riots were received in diplomatic dispatches via Zurich today.

At the same time, it was reported, riots had broken out in Bavaria. At Ingolstadt, the populace stormed and burned the German offices in protest against the brutal arrest of a sick soldier as a deserter.

The Prague demonstrations continue despite violent repressive measures and threats. The text of the oath sworn by the Czech, Jugo-Slav and Polish journalists at the recent congress in Prague was received here today. It reveals the deep-seated causes of the riots.

The oath reads:

"Gathered at Prague while the world war has necessitated a new reorganization of the world, on the basis of a higher authority given the people, we proclaim that we shall remain in the front line of the battle for the freedom of the people, that we shall fight together in favor of each other's interests, that we shall repulse together any despotic measure and that we shall renounce together the oppression of the Austrian state. We want to promote together the confidence of our people in the achievement of their aspirations, to encourage them to express their will more positively."

JOVIAL WEATHER MAN PROMISES FAIR DEAL

The weather man is amiable. His forecast for Boston and vicinity today was thus:

"Fair tonight and Wednesday; not much change in temperature; moderate to northwest winds."

The weather runs fair over the country, with an isolated shower in New England, the Empire State and the Mississippi valley.

Temperatures are seasonable. The high and low for New England at 8 a. m. were: Hartford at 70 and Eastport, Me., at 42. Boston was comfortably between at 55. Key West was high for the country at 76.

But 'tis cold at Modena, U., where the Utahites shiver in 28 degrees, or 4 below freezing.

Those are the outstanding details. There are no conjectures as to when the men who find employment under this act shall be paid the prevailing rate of wages and that they shall not be required to work longer than the prevailing hours of labor. Issue the proclamation without delay.

CLARK MADE ENSIGN AND ASSIGNED OVERSEAS

Rufus J. Clark, son of Lieutenant Rufus W. Clark of the Chelsea Fire Department, a member of the U. S. Naval Reserve, has been promoted to an Ensign and has been assigned to special service for overseas duty. Ensign Clark, who is a widower, was home for a few hours to see his baby boy, Rufus Jr., and his parents on Bennington street, East Boston.

Ensign Clark has taken a special course in navigation. He was born in East Boston twenty-six years ago and was educated in public schools of East Boston. He enlisted in the Naval Reserves at the outbreak of the war. He is well known in East Boston and was an active member in many social clubs of this district.

SENATE PASSES ANTI-LOAFER MEASURE

Greenwood Bill Hits at Rich as Well as Poor — McCall Expected to Sign

Massachusetts is about to put a stamp of disapproval as it were, the tango-hound, the lounge-lizard, the idle rich and other never-do-wells among her recalcitrant slackers.

She is about to tell them to work. In fact, the State is about to ordain that it shall be constantly a criminal offense not to be regularly employed in some useful occupation while the United States is at war.

The Greenwood anti-loafer bill passed the Senate. As it then stood, had passed the House, the bill will be sent to Governor McCall shortly for his signature.

The details of the bill are many and important, but it may be pleasingly will comment upon them briefly. "drastic." They follow, briefly:

The Governor of Massachusetts may at any time during the war issue a proclamation to effect that the employment of all men able to work is necessary for the public protection and welfare.

MUST WORK 36 HOURS A WEEK.

"Thirty days thereafter," the proposed law says, "it shall be the duty of every male citizen of the Commonwealth between the ages of eighteen and fifty years to be engaged in some useful occupation for at least thirty-six hours per week."

"Any such person, who fails to be employed shall be punished by a fine of not more than $100 or by imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months or both."

It is inferred that the courts will decide just what is and what is not "a useful occupation." In advance it may be predicted that the nimble butterfly (male), the professional tango-terpsichorean and the afternoon tea-sipper will be found in their respective places in the to-be-formed criminal class. Whether a State House lobbyist comes under the ban is yet to be decided.

The idle rich are reached by the provisions of the bill: "Possession on the part of any person of money, property or income sufficient to support himself and those regularly dependent upon him shall not be a defence to any prosecution under this act."

In order that the new law may not be manoeuvred by unscrupulous employers to take away "the right of organized labor, it provides that "persons temporarily unemployed by reason of difficulties with their employers" shall not come under its scope. In other words, union men may strike regardless of this bill. "Bonafide" college students are also exempted.

TO MARSHAL UNEMPLOYED.

But the positive details of the bill may be found of more interest. As soon as the proclamation is issued, the Director of the Bureau of Statistics will begin to marshal the forces of unemployed. He will appoint registration officers wherever they may be needed. Those officers will register all persons who, by themselves fail to register. The police also are required by duty to report the names of all persons unemployed.

Every person subject to the act is required to notify the Director of any inability to procure regular employment. The director then may find work for him and may assign him to any task which the director believes he can perform. The unemployed must register every week.

Those are the outstanding details. There are, of course, provisions that the men who find employment under this act shall be paid the prevailing rate of wages and that they shall not be required to work longer than the prevailing hours of labor. Issue the proclamation without delay.

SAILORS GET O. K. IN SURPRISE INSPECTION

By S. HARRY FERRIS.

Aboard the Receiving Ship at Boston, May 28.—Without previous warning the boatswain's whistle was sounded on the ship and the crew promptly lined up in quarters. Orders for a general inspection had come forth from the executive office. The purpose was to determine the condition of the contents of the sailors' dunnage bags. The contents of every bag was carefully laid out and passed under the critical eyes of the officers to determine whether they had been properly marked and their general condition as regards completeness, cleanliness and repair. The inspection, although wholly unexpected, passed off with satisfaction to the inspecting officers and credit to the men.

President Wilson's proclamation regarding the observance of Memorial Day has been posted on the ship. The day will be a quiet one for the sailors, and many of the ordinary week-day activities will cease. In the morning religious services will be held under the direction of Chaplain Arthur W. Stone. The postoffice will make its last delivery at noon, but otherwise will be open for business during the whole twenty-four hours as usual.

In the evening of Memorial Day, Richard Sears, for many years photographer for the AMERICAN, will talk to the sailors of his various experiences in making pictures in the Liberty Theatre. Mr. Sears has snapped views from balloons, the top of telegraph poles and other unusual places, and will tell an interesting story of the way the material is gathered for illustrating the news. Mr. Sears has lately offered his services to the government to serve as photographer on airplanes or submarines, on battleship or battlefield. His talk will be illustrated by pictures thrown on the screen.

A telegram from the managers of the Pelham Bay naval nine asks for a game with the Receiving Ship team at Braves' Field next Sunday. The expense of bringing the New York boys to Boston and getting them back to their quarters is estimated at approximately $200. It seems like asking a little too much to expect the sailors to take this amount out of their own pockets. None of them is wealthy and, as a matter of fact, most of them do not have much spare coin left after allotments for families, insurance and the purchase of Liberty Bonds have been deducted from their pay and they have supplied their actual personal needs from what remains.

EDITORIAL

The school days of an officer are never over. There is something new to be learned and in justice to himself and to his command an officer cannot afford to fall behind the times.

The general staff school now in session at Camp Devens is an admirable example of the thoroughness of the training of the men in our national army. It is attended by all of the senior line and staff officers at the cantonment, from Major-General Harry F. Hodges down, and their close application to problems submitted for solution has made a lasting impression upon the men engaged in the manoeuvres.

The situations worked out for the staff school are by far the most interesting features of the military operations at Devens and the ground covered by the school takes in all branches of the service and their relations to each other.

The instruction is being given under the direction of the French and British military missions and the American officers are deriving the benefit of the months of experience acquired by the members of both of these missions under fire in Europe.

BOYS WILL WORK UNDER REAL BARRAGE

By WILLIAM FLYNN

Camp Devens, Ayer, May 28.—Preparations for an attack under a real artillery barrage at this camp are rapidly nearing completion, and it was said here today that the men at present constituting the rear strength platoons from each of the four infantry regiments of the 76th Division would advance under their baptism of fire probably on Friday.

The attack is scheduled to be staged in the Stiff river section of the cantonment, where the members of the platoons engaged in manoeuvres for the benefit of the general staff school have gone into camp under canvas. The trench systems and other terrain fortifications are now absorbing the attention of the officers attending the staff school.

The members of the artillery brigade are also working out problems in conjunction with the men of the 301st Field Signal Battalion, who are establishing the lines of communication in the field manoeuvres staged for the officers. The need of caution and quick response to orders has been drilled into the men who will take part in the attack, to prevent any one from being injured, and the "battle" has been rehearsed many times under imitation barrages.

Practical warfare is now becoming the keynote of the training of the officers and men at this cantonment, and much of the theoretical instruction is being eliminated. The new men who have just been transferred into the division are being taught how to handle and shoot a rifle, and before long are expected to be sent out to the ranges to begin target practice. Many of them are already engaged in dummy target practice in the vicinity of their barracks.

The new men are showing up well and through the combined efforts of the veterans in the various outfits are rapidly rounding into good soldiers.

Archibald Davison, song leader at Camp Devens.

SIEGLE NOW IN COMMAND OF TRAINING

By WILLIAM FLYNN.

Camp Devens, Ayer, May 28.—Lieutenant Colonel T. H. Siegle of the 151st Depot Brigade has been placed in command of the fourth officers' training camp. He takes the place of Lieutenant-Colonel Edward Croft, head of the division schools, whose numerous other duties made it practically impossible for him to devote the necessary time to the administration of the training camp.

Lieutenant Colonel Charles A. Romeyn of the 302nd Infantry, and assistant to Lieutenant Colonel Croft in the division schools, has been made acting division inspector taking the place made vacant by the transfer out of camp of Lieutenant Colonel, Charles N. Winn. Major James A. Sarrait, formerly acting division ordnance officer, has been assigned to the division school.

Eleven lieutenants have gone to Maine from this cantonment who are scheduled to return with fifteen hundred draftees from that State who are scheduled to arrive here tomorrow.

Eleven captains and sixteen lieutenants who were formerly attached to the depot brigade have been permanently assigned to that organization.

All of the candidates attending the fourth officers' training camp, who were members of units in the 76th division, have been dropped from those units and assigned to the depot brigade with their present rank. The vacancies in the division caused by this transfer are being filled by other men in the same units.

First Lieutenant George C. Tait has been made assistant personnel officer of the depot brigade and assigned to insurance work, and two more men have been sent South to attend the quartermaster officers' training camp at Camp Joseph E. Johnston at Jacksonville, Fla. They are Sergeant Perley W. Lane of the Headquarters company of the 303d field artillery and Corporal Joseph M. Clavin of A company, 301st engineer regiment.

GAMBLERS SAID TO PLY TRADE OPENLY

Providence Police Powerless to Act Because of Insufficient Legislation

Providence, May 28.—A half-hundred hand-book gamblers ply their vocation throughout this city, and the bets are placed at a poolroom on Washington street. It is believed the threatened suicide of a young woman, the mother of two small children, whose husband gambles away his weekly pay, leaving his wife and children destitute, was due to their activities.

The exclusive publication of the threat made by the woman in the Boston AMERICAN recently resulted in an attempted round-up by Captain Robert M. Conners of the Central Precinct Station, who is said to be handicapped owing to the laxity of the law by which the gamblers can be prosecuted. The dupe, who neglected his wife and two children, is said to have divulged information to the police that may result in arrests.

The boldness of the hand-book gamblers is amazing, as well as the number who are credited with eking out a living by taking bets on horses and playing the bets with the proprietor of the Washington street pool room. Police officials say they are powerless to prosecute the gamblers unless they "have the goods on them," which they say is impossible owing to the lack of legislation.

The pool room is said to be backed by a prominent politician whose word carries weight in State politics. Captain Conners, though, is credited with fearing no political coterie of backers and is said to be quietly working to effect the promised roundup.

MISS WOOD INTERESTED IN NEW RADIO SCHOOL

Miss Margaretta Wood, daughter of Rear Admiral Spencer S. Wood of the First Naval District, will arrive in Boston from Washington June 6. She has been made captain of the company at the Naval Service School, Washington, where she has been studying for months. Miss Wood will take a special interest in the radio school to be placed on Cambridge Common.

Durkee Sent to Camp Upton

Brockton, May 28.—Included in the forty-six men who left for Camp Upton, N. Y., was Roland A. Durkee, formerly attache of the American Legation at Constantinople. Durkee claimed the Division 2 board was prosecuting him. The disagreement ended, however, when Chairman Hubbard received a telegram from Provost Marshal General Crowder ordering Durkee to go to camp.

SWIFT & COMPANY U.S.A.

The Farmer's Share

Live stock is marketed from farmer to consumer at a lower cost than almost any other farm product.

The United States Department of Agriculture reported in 1916 that the farmer gets for his cattle "approximately two-thirds to three-fourths" of the final retail price paid by the consumer for the resulting beef.

Under normal conditions, the farmer's share of retail prices of various farm products is approximately as follows:

Butter	71 per cent
CATTLE	66⅔ to 75 per cent
Eggs	65 per cent
Potatoes	55 per cent
Poultry	45 per cent
Fruits	35 per cent

The difference between farmer's price and retail price represents the necessary expenses of packing, freight and wholesale and retail distribution.

Swift & Company not only performs the manufacturing operations of preparing cattle for market in its well-equipped packing plants, but it pays the freight on meat to all parts of the United States, operates 500 branch distributing houses, and in most cases even delivers to the retail butcher. All this is done at an expense of less than 2 cents per pound, and at a profit of only about ¼ of a cent per pound of beef.

Large volume of business and expert management, make possible this indispensable service to the live-stock raiser and to the consumer, and make possible the large proportion of retail prices received by farmers.

Louis J. Frank of Wave street, Dorchester, charged with manslaughter, waived examination in Roxbury court today and was held in $2,000. On May 11, while operating a motorcycle on Columbia road, it is alleged that he knocked down and fatally injured Mrs. Lillian M. Gribben of Columbia road.

3D JEWISH SOLDIER FROM LAWRENCE IS WAR VICTIM

Lawrence, May 28.—The name of Private Joseph Ash in today's casualty list as having died of wounds is the English form for the Jewish name of Ashkenazy, by which he is well known in the Haverhill street section, where he lived before he enlisted about a year ago.

He is the third Jewish boy from Lawrence to lose his life. Ash was nineteen and was born in Russia.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Ashkenazy of No. 345 Park street, have not heard from him since he left home shortly before his enlistment. They were notified last night by the War Department that he had died from wounds received in action May 21.

Ash graduated from the Tarbox Grammar School in 1912. He leaves, besides his parents, two brothers and a sister.

SHELLMER, ACCUSED OF INSULT TO RED CROSS, DEFENDED BY DAUGHTERS

Florence Shellmer (on left) and her sister, Gladys, daughters who defend Foreman Peter Shellmer, who lost his job in East Boston because he was accused by fellow workmen as being unpatriotic. He was blamed for knocking a Red Cross collection box out of a little girl's hand. Shellmer, who has been made ill over the unpleasant incident, gave liberally to the Red Cross and to every other patriotic fund, his daughters said today.

Miss Gladys Shellmer and her younger sister, Florence, came to the Boston AMERICAN office today with statements in defence of their father, Peter Shellmer, who lost his job after being accused of knocking a Red Cross box from a little girl's hand.

Shellmer, who lives on Eutaw street, East Boston, was foreman of outside work at the Bertelsen & Peterson engineering works in East Boston. His dismissal resulted from a demand for his discharge by two hundred workmen at this plant.

Miss Gladys, who was spokesman for herself and her sister today, declared earnestly that her father was a naturalized and patriotic citizen of the United States, that he had bought Liberty Bonds and War Savings Stamps for himself and the family, that he had given to the Red Cross and that he never knocked the collection box from the child's hand in the ordinary sense of the word if he did at all. She said the workmen were jealous of him. Her side of the story ran thus:

HAS NO GERMAN BLOOD.

"Whatever happened was pure accident. Father was one of a number of men hurrying out of the plant last Saturday noon. This little girl was standing in front of the gate with her box held out as the men brushed by. The box fell or was knocked out of her hand and father was one of the nearest to her at the time. She picked the box up and never said a word. Father thought nothing of it and never suspected there was any feeling against him until Mr. Bertelsen told him in the afternoon that the men had complained about him.

"Father would never strike a box or anything else from a child's hand in the way mentioned. He is a kind, affectionate man, and is good to us right children.

"He is not a German, either, as some seem to think. He was born in Halifax, N. S., and there isn't a drop of German blood in our family. Father has been an American citizen for twenty years.

"He bought a Liberty Bond for himself in the first loan, and three in the third loan, one for himself, one for his mother and one for Florence. He paid cash for the bonds, too. He gave $5 to the shop collection for the Red Cross and put money in Red Cross boxes besides.

LIBERAL TO RED CROSS.

"He tells me he has given about $15 in all to the Red Cross, so why should he knock a Red Cross box out of a girl's hand? He gave Florence $5 to buy War Savings Stamps several weeks ago. I am buying a bond for myself out of my pay and have given $2 to the Red Cross.

"We have two cousins in the United States Army, one at Ayer and the other on the front in France.

"The men under father as foreman were jealous of him and the way he was getting along. Father says Mr. Bertelsen told him that he was sorry he had to let him go and, if he could have got other men in their places, he would have let those go who demanded father's discharge.

"Father is worried sick over the whole matter."

BAY STATE PLAN RESCUED FROM DEFEAT

Apparently on the verge of defeat, the advocates of the Bay State Street Railway service-at-cost bill went into conference at the State House this afternoon in the hope of meeting satisfactorily the objections raised by the representatives of the eighty-nine cities and towns in which the big system operates.

The four vital amendments to the bill demanded by the Essex, Bristol, Plymouth, Norfolk and Middlesex County delegates were these:

1. Complete public control of the Bay State.

2. The right of the public trustees to divide the system into fifteen districts and to establish an individual service-at-cost plan in each district.

3. The right of the patrons to demand public hearings before the trustees re-arrange the rates or service of the system.

4—To strike from the bill the sections which absolve the company from the payment of excise taxes and the cost of repairing bridge and highways.

The storm broke in the House today after Representative George W. Worrall of Attleboro, House chairman of the Street Railways Committee, had made a comprehensive outline of the features of the long and complicated bill. Mr. Worrall frankly admitted that there was ground for honest difference of opinion on many of the provisions.

Representative Newhall of Stoneham then moved an amendment to allow the Governor to appoint all five trustees. The bill provides that two of the five trustees would be appointed by the directors of the company. Mr. Newhall said that if the people are to contribute the money for the rehabilitation of the system, they ought to be assured that the money will be spent by a board which represents them.

Representative George S. Baldwin of Brookline asked the House to emulate Congress and remand in session all Summer if necessary to solve the intricate problem.

Representative Odlin of Lynn moved that the company's territory be divided into fifteen districts, such a step was necessary in order to prevent an arrangement whereby the people of the profitable districts would be compelled to pay for the operation of the districts where costs are prohibitive.

Representative Pratt of Salem said that the troubles of the company were caused by mismanagement. He asserted that the promoters had established lines that never could pay, and that they derived their profits from promotion.

Representative Bowser of Westfield said that the Public Service Commission had squeezed $12,000,000 worth of water out of the Bay State, the last rate case and that the ruling bill allowed 6 per cent. dividends to be paid on only $10,000,000, the amount which the commission found to have been prudently invested.

Mr. Worrall said that "the sides were not so far apart," and he moved that action be postponed until they could confer with the view of adjusting their differences.

A majority of the committee were of the opinion that the facts did not warrant a criminal action. Their opinion was overruled by the action of the House today.

7 KILLED, 120 HURT IN ITALIAN CHURCH PANIC

Rome, May 28. — Seven persons were killed and 120 injured during a panic in the Church of the Trinity, near Subiaco, when an insane woman set up the cry "save yourselves." The incident took place during the annual pilgrimage to the church. Subiaco is in central Italy, thirty-three miles northeast of Rome.

I URGE YOU TO USE MORE MILK

Because—milk will help to win the war

Milk should be the first food in every child's diet —it is bone and flesh making and promotes greater growth. Never let your children outgrow the milk habit.

Use plenty of fluid milk in cooking puddings and custards. Serve milk bread. Milk will help you materially to reduce the cost of living. Use more milk because it takes the place of other foods needed for our fighting men and allies.

RAILS HIGHER ON RENEWED SELLING

New Haven and Boston Elevated Share in Gains; Massachusetts Electric Loses

There was renewed selling of industrials at the opening of the New York stock market, but losses were not large. Rails were higher, with Reading and New Haven the most active.

Baldwin Locomotive distinguished itself by opening up a full point higher at 82½. After rising to 82¾ it fell to 81¾.

U. S. Steel opened at 103½, dropped to 103¼, rose again to 104⅛, showing a gain of ⅜, later selling down to 103⅝.

Reading sold between 87⅛ and 86¼; New Haven from an opening of 41¾ slid up to 43⅜, a gain of 1⅝ points.

Industrial Alcohol sold, ex-dividend of $4, down to 121¾, off 1¼, then went to 122¾. Mercantile Marine issues were firm. Mexican Petroleum, 92; American Woolen, 57; New York Central, 72; Southern Pacific, 84; Union Pacific, 121¼; Utah Copper, 78; Tobacco Products, 87, and Studebaker, 59¾, made small gains.

American Sumatra Tobacco suffered one of the largest losses, receding 6¾ points to 125½, after opening at 131. Anaconda lost ½ point at 62. Distillers' Securities was off ⅜ at 56.

In Boston, Massachusetts Electric, pfd., sold down 2¾ points to 22¼, then gradually rose to 24½, off ½. Boston Elevated Railway opened unchanged at 79, then rose to 72¾, up 2¼. New Haven was active in the smaller market, following the lead of the big exchange. Both markets went to lower levels in the second hour. U. S. Steel sold at 102⅞ and Baldwin Locomotive at 79½.

JEWS SET ASIDE DAY TO PRAY FOR U. S. VICTORY

New York, May 28.—In addition to May 30, which has been set aside by President Wilson as a day of prayer for victory, Jews of New York will fast and pray for this blessing August 7. A proclamation by Rabbi Velve Margurlies, says: "The 7th of August falls on the day preceding the month of Elul of the Jewish calendar. This day should be made a special fasting day for victory for America's arms. All Jews should abstain from eating and drinking from sunrise to sunset, and that day be spent in special prayer for victory."

WOMEN GIVE UP HEIRLOOMS AND RINGS TO U. S.

Gold and Silver Contributed to Maintain the Nation's Reserve

By International News Service.

New York, May 28.—Because patriotic New York women are taking their silverware and gold possessions to the war savings metal market, the surplus gold and silver fund of $87,000,000 in the United States Treasury will be left intact. This statement was made by Martin Vogel, assistant United States Treasurer, at the opening of the market in the new Winfield Building, Fifth avenue, at Fortieth street.

War savings stamps are given in exchange for gold and silver articles, which are sent direct to the United States assay office, No. 22 Pine street, to be melted into bullion for the government. A large part of the bullion and silver bars will be loaned to England for payment of her debts to India.

Among articles contributed were gold bracelets and family heirlooms of Mrs. Charles Tiffany, and a card case, picture frame from Mrs. E. P. Morgan. Mrs. D. W. Leeds sent several small articles. Mrs. Charles S. Whitman sent a silver teapot valued at $8.

Market baskets full of silverware were offered to the government.

One woman sent medals won by her son, now dead. Another presented her wedding ring and a worn locket. She insisted the stamps be turned over to the Red Cross. Hundreds of gold and silver dishes, spoons and small pieces of jewelry were taken in yesterday.

A chauffeur took a large wicker laundry basket, holding a large tea kettle, large water pitcher, powder box and a humidor, all of silver, and several silver-backed brushes.

A seven branched gold candlestick which he offered proved to be brass and was not accepted. Several supposedly silver trays, wedding gifts and heirlooms, were found to be aluminum. Bridge prizes and golf trophies were among other articles piled up on the table to be sent to the assay office.

More than $1,350 worth of stamps were distributed to traders who thronged the market. The most valuable acquisition was appraised at $50 and the smallest at 25 cents.

NEW YORK REGISTERS ALIEN WOMEN JUNE 17

New York, May 28.—Registration of unnaturalized German women in New York will begin on June 17, U. S. Marshal Thomas D. McCarthy has announced. Between 8 a. m. of that day, 6 p. m. of Wednesday, June 19, every German alien woman above the age of fourteen must report to the police station of her precinct.

Remember!

You MUST pay your income and excess profit taxes on or before June 15.

If you fail to do so you will be assessed 5 per cent. of the amount due.

You will also be charged interest at the rate of 1 per cent. a month.

Delay means unnecessary expense for the taxpayer.

Delay means embarrassment to the Government in carrying on the war.

It is your patriotic duty to pay your income tax before the time named.

Don't sneer at slackers until you have paid your income Tax.

2 MORE LEAVE THE AMERICAN FOR SERVICE

Ralph P. Young and Alexander McGregor Join the Great Liberty Forces

Two more stars for the already brilliantly starred flag of the Boston AMERICAN!

Ralph P. Young of the AMERICAN'S editorial department and Alexander McGregor, manager of the collection department of the Boston AMERICAN, have entered the service. Young, who enlisted January 20 in the aviation section of the signal corps, was ordered to report at Camp Dick, Dallas, Tex., Saturday, for training as a flier, and McGregor has enlisted for a seven-year term in the navy.

Young was born in Medina, N. Y., twenty-six years ago and attended the public grammar and high schools of Batavia, N. Y. Afterward he went to Rochester Business Institute.

He leaves behind him at No. 26 Devereux street, Marblehead, a young wife and two children, Elizabeth C. and Ralph, Jr. He was a corporal in Company I, 15th Massachusetts State Guard, prior to his enlistment.

He had been seven years in the newspaper game, four years in New York and three in New England. For the past year he had been connected with the AMERICAN, and he was one of the most popular and efficient men in the office.

McGregor is twenty-two years old. He was examined for the draft board, was slow in calling, however, and "Mac" decided to enlist. He decided to pass up the Naval Reserve and go into the regular navy for the full length of service, seven years.

He began work for the AMERICAN five years ago as a bookkeeper. A steady worker and a fine personality soon led to his advancement. He is the fourth man to enlist in the navy from the AMERICAN'S advertising department and the ninth man of that department to go into war service.

BAN WEDDING MUSIC FROM LOHENGRIN

Hun Marches Must Go, Say New York Women; Appeal to Sousa

New York, May 28.—Hereafter when Mary or Alice strolls down the main aisle in a veil of tulle caught with orange blossoms and leaning on the arm of father, their stately steps will keep time to the solid inspiring strains of a good made-in-America wedding march instead of the German article, if some prominent women of this city have their patriotic suggestions acted upon.

Those women of the American Defence Society see no reason why Mendelssohn's Wedding March or the "Here Comes the Bride" from Lohengrin should not be barred, as have other Hun tunes. They say you would not expect these days to open a patriotic rally with "Die Wacht Am Rhein," and no more should the Hun wedding marches be played to send its chairman, Mrs. Oliver Cromwell Field of No. 601 West One Hundred and Tenth street, today, a committee was appointed to call upon Lieutenant John Philip Sousa to turn his attention to the composition of a genuine Yankee wedding march.

A BOOSTER FOR SULPHERB TABLETS

There are thousands of such boosters for Sulpherb Tablets, and that is why hundreds of thousands are sold by druggists every year. Mr. Robert Clemence, 235 S. Wilbur avenue, Syracuse, N. Y., writes: "I have taken 3 packages of Sulpherb Tablets and my bowels are moving regularly now and I am a great deal stronger than I was when I started taking them. I was all run down and weak from the long, continued stomach, liver and bowel trouble. I know 4 or 5 men that work with me, were troubled the same as I was. I told them about Sulpherb Tablets and now they are all taking them, and say they are the best medicine they have ever tried, etc." Sold by all druggists. You Can Tell the People Who Have Iron In Their Blood--Strong, Healthy, Vigorous, Folks

Doctor Says Ordinary Nuxated Iron Will Increase the Strength of Nervous, Run-down People in Two Weeks' Time in Many Cases.

ONE glance is enough to tell which people have iron in their blood. They are the ones that do and dare. The others are in the weakling class. Sleepless nights spent worrying over supposed ailments, constant dosing with habit-forming drugs and narcotics and useless attempts to brace up with strong coffee and other stimulants are what keep them suffering and vainly longing to be strong. The real trouble is lack of iron in the blood. Without iron the blood has no power to change what it eats into tissue and therefore, nothing you eat does you any good for it cannot get the strength out of it. When iron is supplied it enriches the blood, puts color in the cheeks, gives the body greater resistance to ward off disease. Nuxated iron is the iron-run-down people who were ailing all the while have most needed for increased strength and endurance simply by taking iron in the proper form. And this, after they had in some cases been going on for months without getting benefit from anything.

If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times per days after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. There is nothing like good old iron to help put color in your cheeks and round, healthy flesh on your bones. But you must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated like Nuxated Iron if you want it to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless.

Many an athlete and prize fighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance which comes from having plenty of iron in the blood while many another has gone down to inglorious defeat simply for the lack of iron.

In regard to the value of Nuxated Iron, Dr. A. J. Newman, late Police Surgeon of the City of Chicago, and former House Surgeon Jefferson Park Hospital, Chicago, says Nuxated Iron has proven through his own tests of it to excel any preparation he has ever used for creating red blood, building up the nerves and strengthening the muscles. Dr. J. W. Armsted, Grove Hill, Ala., graduate of the University of Alabama School of Medicine, Mobile, 1883, says: "In the cases I used Nuxated Iron I have found more beneficial results than from any preparation I have ever used in 34 years' practice." Dr. R. B. Baugh, Prattville, Miss., graduate of the Memphis Hospital College, Memphis, 1898, says: "I always prescribe Nuxated Iron where a reconstructive tonic is indicated."

MANUFACTURERS' NOTE—Nuxated Iron recommended above is not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated and does not injure the teeth, make one constipated or upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed in this city by all good druggists.

—CUT THIS OUT—

What Nuxated Iron Is Made From

Sworn Statement of Composition of Its Formula

THE Board of Directors have authorized the broadest publication of the sworn statement of the composition of Nuxated Iron, so that the public may examine it for themselves and judge as to its merits.

Newspapers everywhere are invited to copy this statement for the benefit of their readers. It is suggested that physicians make a record of it and keep it in their offices so that they may intelligently answer questions of patients concerning it. Everybody is advised to cut it out and keep it. A copy of the actual sworn statement will be sent to any one who desires such. It is as follows:

Each dose of two tablets of Nuxated Iron contains one and one-half grains of organic iron in the form of iron peptonate of a special specific standard which in our opinion possesses superior qualities to any other known form of iron. By using other makes of Iron Peptonate we could have put the same quantity of actual iron in the tablets at less than one-fourth the cost to us and by using metallic iron we could have accomplished the same thing at less than one-twelfth the cost; but by so doing we must have most certainly impaired their therapeutic efficacy. Glycerophosphates used in Nuxated Iron is one of the most expensive tonic ingredients known. It is especially recommended to build up the nerve force and thereby increase brain power, as glycerophosphates are said to contain phosphorous in a state very similar to that in which it is found in the nerve and brain cells of man.

As will be seen from the above, two important ingredients of Nuxated Iron (Iron Peptonate and Glycerophosphates) are very expensive products as compared with most other tonics.

Under such circumstances the temptation to adulteration and substitution by unscrupulous persons is very great, and the public is hereby warned to be careful and every bottle is plainly labeled "NUXATED IRON" by the Dan Health Laboratories, Paris, London and Detroit, U. S. A., as this is the only genuine article. If you have been using other forms of iron without success this does not prove Nuxated Iron will not help you.

What is the Strongest Love in the World?

IF YOU had to make your choice between your husband and your sister —if you had to sacrifice one for the other—if you had to throw away your own happiness besides—what would you do?

Kathleen Norris in her new novel, "Sisters," has told the story of a love which the writers of books and poems and plays have pretty generally ignored. Yet if love is to be judged by its constancy, by its sympathy, by its eagerness to meet a supreme sacrifice—then this love of which Mrs. Norris writes has a place of its own in the heart of womankind.

It is a new sort of story—a truly great sort of story, by an author who in "Mother" and "The Heart of Rachel" and "Birthright" has earned her conspicuous place in American fiction. It begins in

WAR PLAY IS GIVEN AT COPLEY

By FRED J. McISAAC.

"Arms and the Girl," a three-act comedy by Grant Stewart and Robert Baker, was presented at the Copley Theatre last night for the first time in Boston.

The little company of English players whom Henry Jewett has assembled at the Copley have done a number of very creditable things in the year and a half of their stay in Boston. They have been called "the best stock company in the United States," with some reason.

A cobbler should stick to his last, however, and when these English folk undertake to play American characters to an audience of Americans they display more courage than discretion.

"Arms and the Girl" deals with the plight of several Americans caught in Belgium when the German tide overflowed the low countries.

It seems that Ruth Sherwood, a Massachusetts girl, claims Wilfred Ferrers, another American, as her fiance to prevent his being shot as a spy by the impulsive Germans. She already has one fiance who complicates matters by turning up, and is forced to masquerade as a chauffeur, while the waggish German generals forces Ruth and Wilfred to marry at once.

Jack Martin, the original fiance, is supposed to be an American of some breeding and decency or he wouldn't have got friendly enough with a girl like Ruth to become engaged to her.

Therefore somebody should march Leonard Craske to one side and whisper in his ear that such Americans do not wear their hats indoors, especially when conversing with their womenfolk, nor do they exhibit the kind of manners which he diffused. Nor within the borders of this wide country did I ever hear the kind of accent which he appears to think is American. If Mr. Craske hasn't been in this country long enough to learn these things, Henry Jewett certainly knows us well enough to make him take his hat off in the second act.

ACCENT UNAMERICAN.

Viola Roach, a very competent character woman, did her best to make Ruth Sherwood a sweet and lovable character, but she is rather heavy for this sort of role. Lionel Glenister, who asserted that he was an American in an accent which smacked of Putney and the Thames, played the hero and did a distinctly tory job aside from his linguistic difficulty.

The most artistic work by far was done by H. Conway Wingfield as a German General, with a Rabelaisian sense of humor, but Beatrice Miller was perfectly agreeable as a pert Belgian lady-in-waiting.

"Arms and the Girl," was apparently written before all the facts were in about the Germans in Belgium. These Germans didn't murder anybody, didn't commit a single atrocity, were polite to the Burgomaster instead of shooting him, didn't insult anybody, and gave all the folks in the play a pretty square deal. So you couldn't call it an accurate picture of life in Belgium during the first months of the war. And while the action is spirited and the central idea of the play is effective, the dialogue, particularly, the sentimental scenes, is crude in the extreme.

MODERN THEATRE and BEACON THEATRE—A photoplay that reaches a distinction marking a remarkable advance in the production of motion pictures was shown at the Modern and Beacon Theatres for the first time in Boston when Marguerite Clark was pictured in "Prunella," in screening of the play of like title, in which Miss Clark made a great success on the stage. It is a story of infinite charm pictured in scene patterned after the never-never school of scenic dressing, and Miss Clark in most happily invested in a wistful part, and is surrounded by supporting players of great gifts.

As a production in entirety, it is well worth seeing.

The companion photoplay was "Mile-a-Minute Kendall," picturing Jack Pickford as the racy son of wealth, who is disinherited by his father because of his dissolute habits. He is set down in a country town, and there he works upon an automobile invention, spurred on and helped in good intentions by a young woman in the play. Success and new wealth comes to him, he is forgiven, and marries the girl. Short comedies and News Pictures completed the bill.

GLOBE THEATRE—The three foremost stars of the motion picture were represented on the bill at the Globe Theatre yesterday, the same to remain throughout the week. This reversion to all photoplay bills at this popular theatre has proved to be very attractive seasonable fare for its patrons. Mary Pickford is shown pictured in "The Little American," considered one of her best characterizations, in which she appears as the central figure of a patriotic story. The other photoplay was "The Man from Painted Post," picturing Douglas Fairbanks in one of his Western roles in which he has a lively adventure intermixed with his own brand of athletic humors. Charlie Chaplin was shown pictured as "The Floorwalker."

GAYETY THEATRE — Back to the Gayety Theatre this week comes Mollie Williams and her new show. Mollie is always welcomed by her following of burlesque fans and this season she bids fair to add a host of new admirers to her retinue. For be it known, Mollie has set out to upset burlesque traditions by producing a show that is different. The show is lavishly gowned, artistically staged, possesses a round score of girls well blessed with the attributes that have made burlesque famous, and brings musical numbers that are tuneful and new. Billy Gilbert, Ambaro Ali and Billy McIntyre are a trio of capable comedians.

Coming Attractions

WILBUR THEATRE—The Metropolitan premier of the new comedy by Lewis B. Fry, "High and Dry," presented by W. P. Orr and J. M. Welch, which was to have occurred at Ye Wilbur Theatre last evening, has been postponed to next Thursday afternoon at this house where its Boston engagement will be inaugurated with two holiday performances, Memorial Day afternoon and evening. From the few places where it was presented preliminary to its Boston debut most favorable reports have been received not as to the amusing qualities of the play but regarding the notable cast.

TRIO OF BIG ACTS AT THE ORPHEUM

A trio of real headline acts were on the bill at Loew's Orpheum Theatre yesterday. The Old Homestead Four, endeared to theatregoers through the pleasure they always offered when appearing with the great New England classic, presented a series of old and new songs, much to the delight of the audience. It is as great a singing organization as ever.

Jackson and Wahl, favorites of musical comedy, offered a rapid-fire and enjoyable act. "A Breeze From Musical Shows" Eddie Foyer, known as "the man with 1,000 poems," is a performer distinctive in that he is one who can please with recitations of poetry which he offers in addition to his regular monologue.

The others in the bill included Annette Dare, presenting a revue of exclusive songs, which she sang very engagingly, Thornton & Thornton, in songs and comedy; and the Winton Brothers, in daring equilibristic feats. On the screen there were shown the latest News Pictorial, Charlie Chaplin as the hapless hero in comic circumstances as "The Adventurer," and the photoplay, "The Man Hunt," picturing Ethel Clayton.

PARK THEATRE—Theda Bara, the universal favorite, appeared at her best as a Javanese dancer, a worshipper of the Goddess of Dancing, in "The Serpent of Buddha," a six-act story of the East, of which some of the important scenes are laid in the Apache quarter of Paris. As a Buddhist dancer she meets an English army officer, and for love of him gives up her religion and occupation. The story of sacrifice of all that was dear to her is most appealing, and the entire photoplay is in a class that has never been excelled.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew, the two popular favorites in comedy, are seen in their first and only six-act production that contains some rare comedy. The villain of society makes love to a poor stors girl and then spurns her, only to meet with revenge at the hands of the same young lady. The Christie comedy provided many laughs and proved a favorite on the bill, and the Pathe Weekly was particularly interesting, showing local scenes and items, as well as views of our boys "over there." The singer is Anthony Diarino, who met with applause as he appeared on the stage.

WALDRON'S CASINO — Waldron's Own Bostonians were cordially welcomed back to Waldron's Casino twice yesterday, by great and delighted audiences. This company gives one of the very best burlesque shows ever presented in Boston from every standpoint of burlesque requirements—large and excellent company, a witty book, comical situations, magnificence of production and a host of young and pretty girls, and capacity audiences are expected all of the week. Phil Ott, one of the best-known comedians on the burlesque stage, heads the company and he certainly makes the most of the work which has been cut out for him. The greater part of it was written by Frank Finney, but Mr. Ott also provided much of the words and business. His eccentric dancing made quite a hit. Mr. Ott is capably supported by Jimmy Hunter, Ed Healey, Nettie Nelson, Kitty Mitchell, Gladys Parker, Jon Dandall, Jack Witts, William Lynch and the Carnival Trio.

NORUMBEGA PARK—With a monster patriotic demonstration Saturday evening, a wonderful band concert Sunday afternoon and evening, and the first performance of the Liberty Players in Max Marcin's tremendous New York and Boston success, "Cheating Cheaters," last night, Norumbega Park opened on its usual old-time splendor, plus new attractions which dim all former efforts.

"Cheating Cheaters" does not have to be recommended to Boston playgoers. They know it as a winner. It never has been played by a more clever organization, however, than the Liberty Players, who might properly be termed an all-star organization, being composed as they are of the principal players of many successful companies, headed by pretty Joan Quest, who scored a distinct personal success last night.

LANCASTER THEATRE — A triple bill of photoplays was shown at the Lancaster Theatre yesterday. The William Fox photoplay, "Her One Mistake," featuring Gladys Brockwell, was shown for the first time in Boston. This is a play with locale among the habitants of the nether world and shows the regeneration of a girl who has made an error and feels to expiate for it. There was also shown May Allison in "Social Hypocrites," and an added attraction, Bessie Barriscale in "Borrowed Plumage."

COLUMBIA THEATRE—Another big all-photoplay bill was offered by Marcus Loew at his Columbia Theatre yesterday when there was shown William Hart in his latest photoplay, "Selfish Yates," picturing him as the keeper of a resort in a Western town, a self-centered and harsh man who is won to better life through coming with a good woman after many a trial of his will. The other photoplay was a screening of Count Leo Tolstoy's "Resurrection," picturing Pauline Frederick as the young Russian girl in the days of the monarchy.

Condensed Criticisms

Plymouth Theatre—Last week of "The Man Who Came Back," one of the most interesting melodramatic pieces in several seasons and Boston's most popular play of the year.

Tremont Theatre—Mitzi, the bewitching little comedienne, in a brand new musical comedy entitled "Head Over Heels," which is full of bright music, clever people and pretty girls, and gives the star an unparalleled opportunity to display her gifts.

Majestic Theatre—The continued success of the very astonishing dramatization of the great war by D. W. Griffith, "Hearts of the World." You are stunned by the vastness of this drama and delighted with its sweetness.

"SEA WOLF" A FEATURE AT KEITH'S

"The Sea Wolf," with Hobart Bosworth himself acting the part of Wolf Larsen, heads the bill at Keith's this week. It is a one-act sketch and won great favor with yesterday's audiences.

Bosworth displays all of that wonderful acting ability which he exhibited when "The Sea Wolf" was prepared for the screen. His audience, however, is naturally better able to appreciate his remarkable acting when he himself appears before them and depicts the physical strength, cruelty and determination to shape his own destiny which surrounded the life of Wolf Larsen.

Carroll Ashburn takes the part of Humphrey Van Weyden and shows to advantage. Ida Stanhope wins favor as Maud Brewster, John Hewitt acts the part of Leach, while Frank Howard appears in the role of Louis.

Jack Wilson, assisted by Ben Bard and Gladys Moffatt, give an impromptu revue of "The Sea Wolf."

The rest of the program is also composed of sterling numbers. Florence Ames and Adelaide Winthrop presented "Caught in a Jamb." It is a clever comedy full of bright spots.

The Lovalles appear in a tight-rope and juggling act which is unlike the usual offering. It was crowded with all kinds of thrills.

Donald E. Roberts sang a collection of songs which included some of the latest war songs. Barto and Clark gave a pleasing vaudeville novelty.

Hunting and Francis appeared in a comedy "Love Blossoms." Dorores put on an animal act, while the Hearst-Pathe films showed the American troops marching to the battle front in Picardy.

COLMAN SQUARE THEATRE — A big bill of vaudeville and motion pictures which afforded extreme pleasure to its patrons was presented at the Codman Square Theatre yesterday. The vaudeville included Lewis and Norton, in "Bits from Musical Comedy"; Quinan and Nevins, "The Variety Boys"; the Edah Delbridge Trio of singers in an engaging program of songs, and the Calendar Girl in artistic posing. There will be an entire change of bill on Thursday when the photoplay will be the patriotic film spectacle, "For the Freedom of the World."

BOSTON THEATRE — Mae Murray, formerly with the Follies and a favorite on both stage and screen, is the star in a feature film on love gone awry at the Boston Theatre this week. The film is entitled: "The Bride's Awakening." The whole story of the photoplay is a stern warning to impulsive youth against clandestine marriage. Miss Murray is pictured as the sweet and innocent wife of a dissolute husband who wearies of her. The film star is assisted by Lewis J. Cody and Ashton Dearholt. A George Ade comedy and the Hearst-Pathe News Weekly add to the screen part of the bill.

PARAGON PARK WILL OPEN TOMORROW NIGHT

Manager George A. Dodge announces that all is in readiness for the grand inaugural tomorrow night of another season at Paragon Park and Palm Garden. In all respects amusements which have made this Park and its palm garden and cabaret program so famous, many new features are provided.

In the cabaret, which entertains the 2,000 diners in the palm garden, the new dieing feature by eight beautiful girls in a sunken tank on the stage the natatorial exhibition is said to be more amazing than ever. The Paragon Cabaret Revue of 1918 is also said to be on a more elaborate scale than ever before.

In the free open air circus, in addition to the afternoon and evening band concerts by Mace Sky's Military Band, some wonderful acts of daring are promised. This inaugural program will continue for the holiday on Thursday, Memorial Day, Friday and Saturday, and next Sunday.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher, and has been made under his personal supervision for over 30 years. Allow no one to deceive you in this. Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but experiments, and endanger the health of Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES IF YOUR BACK ACHES

Do you feel tired and "worn-out"? Are you nervous and irritable? Don't sleep well at night? Have a "dragged out," unrested feeling when you get up in the morning? Dizzy spells? Bilious? Bad taste in the mouth, backache, pain or soreness in the loins, and abdomen? Severe distress when urinating, bloody, cloudy urine or sediment? All these indicate gravel or stone in the bladder, or that the poisonous microbes, which are always in your system, have attacked your kidneys.

You should use GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules immediately. The oil soaks gently into the walls and lining of the kidneys, and the little poisonous animal germs, which are causing the inflammation, are immediately attacked and chased out of your system without inconvenience or pain.

Do not delay a minute. Go to your druggist and get and insist on his supplying you with a box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. In 24 hours you will feel renewed health and vigor. After you have been benefited, continue to take one or two Capsules each day so as to keep in first-class condition, and ward off the danger of future attacks. Money refunded if they do not help you. Look for the original imported GOLD MEDAL brand, and thus be sure of getting the genuine.—Advertisement.

Alkali In Soap Bad For the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. —Advertisement.

OVIDENCE POLICE ON TRAIL OF "CHICAGO JOE"

Providence, May 27.—The recent test to this city of "Chicago Joe" and his band if six gambling-house robbers has aroused police officials, who say they will prosecute Joe as a vagrant if they succeed in apprehending the wily leader who visits this city at will and spends now and then about underworld haunts with his "girl," also well known to the police. Joe is said to be "Chesterfield" in dress, if not in action, and is credited with a lasting liking for prominent cafes with his girl.

SMITH '18 BRIDE ELECT IS WORCESTER GIRL

Worcester, May 28.—True to tradition a Worcester girl in the class of 1918 at Smith College has announced her engagement to her classmates. Miss Francis Allen Fuller, whose engagement to Lieutenant Charles T. Halloway, Jr., First Aero Squadron, United States Marine Corps, has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Fuller of No. 18 Bratle street, is the bride-elect of the class of 1918.

Lieutenant Halloway is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Ross Halloway of Roland Park, Baltimore. He is stationed at Miami, Fla.

RED CROSS NAME USED AS LURE FOR GIRLS

Rescued Victim of White Slave Agents Reveals Widespread New England Plot

the case. A young man said to be the agent of houses of questionable character, was told to produce the girl forthwith. She appeared to the officers in Massachusetts avenue. She afterward told her tale to Mr. Sheehan.

Further investigation convinced the police and Mr. Sheehan that a widespread plan was in operation to lure girls to isolated camps about Nantucket and Hingham Neck. There, after wining and dining them, the girls, it is contended, were to be shipped to Providence vice resorts.

According to the story the girl told Mr. Sheehan she met a young man who invited her to Nantasket. Then followed the usual automobile ride and dinner with drinks and unconsciousness.

Then by further automobile rides, promises of a good time and nice things to wear the girl's resistance was broken down until she became a pliant tool for commercialized vice.

To break up this traffic and to stop luring out-of-the-way camps for their purposes, the district attorneys of Norfolk and Plymouth counties and the Federal authorities will be appealed to in an effort to save girls from the fate planned for them.

The Red Cross statement tells its own story:

"This is a notice to young women who wishe to leave their homes and want a good excuse, that they had better not use the Red Cross as an excuse.

"This is also a notice to husbands whose wives have left them on the ground that they were going to France to enter the service as Red Cross as nurses or canteen assistants, that their wives cannot enter the service of the Red Cross in any capacity either at home or abroad without being properly certified.

MOTHERS ALSO WARNED.

"And finally it is a notice to mothers whose daughters have left home and stated that they were going abroad in the service of the Red Cross that their daughters cannot enter the service of the Red Cross until their parents have been consulted and until they are otherwise qualified.

"This whole notice is made necessary by reason of the fact that a great many inquiries have come lately to the headquarters of the New England Division of the American Red Cross, No. 755 Boylston street, about women who have left their homes and given as an excuse that they were going abroad, or to some other part of the United States for the Red Cross, either as nurses or in some other capacity.

"Last week the police of Chicopee were hunting for a young woman who left her home and sent word that she was on her way to France as a Red Cross nurse. It was found that no such person is connected in any way with the Red Cross.

MAN SEEKS HIS WIFE.

"A man from Taunton came to headquarters looking for his wife, who left him and who stated that she was going to join the Red Cross abroad. No such woman applied for service in the Red Cross.

"Inquiries were also made about a woman from the Middle West, who stated that she had joined the Red Cross workers. She said she was going abroad, but she wanted her mail sent to "General Delivery, Boston." Again, no such person.

"James Jackson, manager of the New England Division of the American Red Cross, would like it clearly understood that persons cannot enter the service of the Red Cross in any haphazard way.

"In the first place, if a position as nurse is required, the woman must be enrolled and must be certified. Then if accepted, their loyalties must be looked up and vouched for, and C. K. d by Washington before passports are granted. Then they are mobilized at either the Red Cross Mobilization Station in New York City or the one at Lakewood, N. J. Here they receive equipment and final instructions. The whole process, even with trained and certified nurses, takes several weeks."

DENIES PROMISE TO WED MISS EMERSON

Boston Man, Defendant in $100,000 Heart-Balm Suit, Makes Grave Charges

Grave charges of misconduct on part of his former sweetheart were made by Frank S. Squire of Boston, defendant in a $100,000 damage suit brought by Sarah D. Emerson of Effingham, N. H., in his answer filed in the Suffolk Superior Court.

As a general denial of the claims made by the plaintiff is in the answer, which further says, that "if he ever promised to marry the plaintiff, as alleged in her declaration, after said promise of marriage was made he learned that the plaintiff had been in the past and was on various occasions then committing a statutory offence with different men and therefore he had then and has now a just cause for refusing to marry the plaintiff."

TO JUDGE EACH CASE ON OWN MERITS

No General Ruling About Men of Draft Age in Non-War Industries

Washington, May 28.—When is a shoe clerak not a shoe clerk?

Answer—When he is a foot specialist.

This is only one of the riddles flooding in with every mail to the office of Provost Marshal General Crowder in response to his recent order that all men engaged in non-war work who are in the draft age must go to work in munitions factories by July 1.

It is announced that General Crowder will issue no list of the essentials and non-essential industries. Because there is no intention on the part of the government to force married men to move to new industrial centres, it will devolve upon the local draft boards to try each case and determine where best exempted men may serve the country.

MAY KEEP OLD JOBS.

Few clerks, bookkeepers and salesmen in districts where there are no munitions plants advertising for help will be forced to give up their positions, it is said.

Many trades are wondering where they stand in the order of the essential-to-war industries. Groups of printers, painters, engravers, undertakers, paperhangers, plumbers, gas inspectors, yes, even bill collectors, have asked for rulings. In each case the applicant was told to consult his own conscience or to await the call of his local draft board.

HEARING ON IDLERS.

No hearings of the cases of alleged idlers, gamblers, or men engaged in useless pursuits will be held before July 2. The rulings of local boards will be subject to the same appeal as permitted in exemption hearings.

Although the Provost Marshal General's office has found in the past few days that most men consider that they hold positions most important to the land, the experts insist that at least 750,000 will soon be in new jobs.

Promoted to Sergeant

Robert Gregor, of No. 17 Hancock street, Dorchester, who has been a corporal in the United States Medical Corps at Camp Devens, Ayer, has been promoted to sergeant.

Form "Circle" to Entertain U. S. Enlisted Men

Lonesome United States soldiers and sailors who find themselves in Boston without friends or relatives to visit, are to be entertained by a group of ten young persons calling themselves the Patriotic Hospitality Circle. Miss Rebecca Brilow, twenty-six, of 18 Georgia street, Roxbury, now studying law, organized the Circle and hopes that many homesick boys will be cheered by her and her colleagues.

"Our plan is to have a gathering of all members of the Circle every fortnight," said Miss Brilow. "We will meet at a different member's home each time. Three meals will be served and there will be games, music and story telling. At each party we will entertain four or six boys who have no relatives or friends in this city. Boys in the service who have relatives or close friends will not be eligible. We plan to reach only the homesick or depressed boy who has no relatives or friends here. We want to make him feel, while he is waiting to go overseas, that someone besides his folks at home are interested in his welfare."

The other members of the Circle are Miss Alice Marshall, Jack Nottenberg, Philip Aronson, Rebecca Cohen, Irene Silverman, Hilda Furst, Jeanette Mendelsohn, Irving R. Bloom and Robert Levenson.

Grand Army Notes

Post 2, of South Boston, has completed arrangements for the annual Memorial Day exercises. They will decorate graves of all departed members in all the cemeteries and will join with the Woman's Relief Corps in strewing the waters of Dorchester Bay with flowers in memory of the unknown dead at sea and later will dine in the post hall.

* * *

Everett has the distinction of being the first Massachusetts city to prohibit sports in the forenoon of Memorial Day, holding the morning of the day open wholly to the G. A. R. observances. Since then the practice has become general in this State.

* * *

Members of James A. Perkins Post 156, G. A. R., of Everett, decorated the graves at Woodlawn and Holy Cross yesterday in order that they might all assemble at Glenwood for the usual Memorial exercises at the soldiers' lot on Memorial day.

* * *

Informal addresses to the school pupils of Melrose will be made by members of U. S. Grant Post 4 of Melrose Wednesday, at the High School at noontime and in Memorial Hall to the grammar school children at two o'clock.

* * *

Tomorrow night members of the Paul Revere Post 38, Quincy, will attend patriotic exercises in the public schools where Chauncy M. Marston, patriotic instructor, has arranged special exercises. Details from the Sons of Veterans, Spanish War Veterans, W. R. C., Daughters of Veterans' Auxiliary and Auxiliary to the Spanish War Veterans have been invited.

* * *

The Woman's Relief, assisted by the Daughters of Veterans and other auxiliaries of Quincy will serve a banquet to the veterans in Faxon Hall on Memorial Day.

* * *

Principals and teachers of the public schools of Quincy will collect flowers in the Granite City tomorrow and leave them at various schoolhouses to be collected for the purpose of decorating the graves of the departed members of the Paul Revere Post.

* * *

Memorial services for Isaac D. Patten Post, G. A. R., of Watertown, will be held at the Soldiers' monument on the Common, following a parade through the principal streets. In the morning details will visit the various cemeteries and decorate graves and in the afternoon a parade, with G. A. R., State Guard, Boy Scouts, Patriotic Societies and town officials in line, will be formed. George Ring, commander of the Watertown branch of the Sons of Veterans, will be marshal of the parade and the Veterans will be led by Commander William H. Benjamin.

* * *

Although P. Stearns Davis Post, No. 87, of East Cambridge, has but sixteen survivors, the post is making extensive arrangements for the celebration of its fiftieth anniversary which will be observed June 29.

* * *

A solemn high military mass for Arlington's soldiers and sailors will be celebrated in St. Agnes' Catholic Church, Arlington, at 9 o'clock, Thursday morning. The sermon will be by the Rev. Joseph L. Early, assistant pastor, on "The Soldier's Duty and the Soldier's Reward." This service will also be a memorial for Joseph Zwingo, the first young man of the town to die in the world war. A company from Camp Devens is expected to honor the occasion.

* * *

The Rev. George A. Spencer of the Greenwood Memorial Church, Washington and Dakota streets, Dorchester, will be the orator of the Memorial Day exercises at Cedar Grove cemetery of Benjamin Stone Jr. Post 68. Daniel L. Weymouth, commander of the Post will introduce the speakers.

* * *

Benjamin Stone Jr. Post 68, G. A. R. of Dorchester, have decorated nearly 1200 graves of departed comrades in the various Dorchester cemeteries. The cemeteries visited by the Post and its affiliated bodies were: Codman, Catholic, South, North and Cedar Grove, the latter being the largest in the district.

* * *

Circle 58, Ladies of the Grand Army, of Dorchester, have been busy making wreaths for the graves of the dead soldiers and the wreaths will be placed on the graves of comrades prior to Memorial Day.

* * *

The Soldiers' Monument, Meeting House Hill, presents a pretty sight, decorated in an artistic manner by the Nathaniel Bowditch Camp 30, Sons of Veterans, in honor of the men that lost their lives in the Civil War, hailing from Dorchester.

* * *

The Rev. Theodore L. Frost of the Mattapan Baptist Church will be the orator of the Huntington F. Wolcott Post 102 at its Memorial exercises in the Milton Town Hall.

WANT $12,798,000 FOR NEW FEDERAL BUILDINGS

Washington, May 28.—Building authorizations to meet deficient government housing facilities in forty-five cities are asked of Congress by the Treasury Department. Appropriations of $12,798,000 are requested.

Continued congestion of Federal buildings in the forty-five cities named is given by Secretary McAdoo as the reason for asking additional structures.

Among the new buildings asked for are:

Gloucester, Mass., $25,000; Waterbury, Ct., $265,000; Lowell, Mass., $400,000; Manchester, N. H., $275,000.

BOY KILLED BY FALL AT THE LYMAN SCHOOL

Westboro, May 28.—John Manrahan, aged eleven, at a Lyman School boy, died at the school hospital of concussion of the brain as a result of a twenty-fot fall into a coal hole while shoveling coal. The accident happend this morning. The boy was attended by Dr. Thomas H. Ayer. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Manrahan of Hyde Park.

LABOR LEADER IN RACE AGAINST LONGWORTH

Cincinnati, O., May 28.—James Wilson, president of the Pattern-makers' League of North America, will oppose Nicholas Longworth, as Congressman from the First Ohio District, at the coming August primaries, it has been announced.

Wilson is now in Great Britain, one of a special labor mission to the organized workers of the allied nations, named by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor. Wilson, while a pronounced Democrat, has never been a candidate of that organization.

Known by the Friends We Keep

It's simple enough to get a man to visit your store and sample your wares — once. But to make him a permanent customer and enthusiastic booster takes something more than clever advertising and adroit salesmanship. It requires good service, good values and good satisfaction.

We doubt if any other store anywhere, ever had such a large percentage of "repeaters" as this Live Store has, or so many friends on the outside, ready and willing to speak a good word for it.

So while the rapid and continuous growth of our business is indeed impressive, the most interesting and significant feature is the vast number of familiar faces which throng our aisles each day.

Kuppenheimer Suits, $25 to $48

—are undoubtedly responsible for a great many of our repeat sales. If you wonder why a man who is about to discard a Kuppenheimer is so insistent upon getting another, it's because you haven't worn one yourself. Many clothes sound as good in print but mighty few perform as well in service.

ELIS BACK NINE TO DEFEAT HARVARD

Yale Men Betting 2 to 1 That Team Will Finish Season Unbeaten

New Haven, Ct., May 28.—Betting 2 to 1 two one at Yale that the Eli nine will finish the season without losing a game. No Yale nine of former years ever turned the trick, but Yale has only Harvard left for a single game between it and a clean record, and as Harvard succumbed to Princeton on Harvard's own grounds last Saturday Yale hopes are high that the dream will come true.

Yale's athletic season will come to a close with this game, and with the Yale-Harvard boat race here next Saturday, and while the chances of the crew are regarded not quite as good as those of Harvard, the nine feels that it is a logical winner.

Its team game is growing stronger and stronger, both in batting and base-running, and Pitcher Frank Talcott has shut-out records against Harvard, Princeton, Dartmouth and Pennsylvania to his credit. No previous pitcher has equalled this record.

Talcott comes of baseball stock, as his father, E. H. Talcott, was one of the owners of the New York Giants a quarter century ago.

Yale has already won seven games, six of them with Talcott pitching. Lynch pitched the first, when little Wesleyan gave Yale its one score of the season. Yale was able to win by a score of only 6 to 5.

Yale's batting averages on the eve of the final game of the season show the team to be possessed of two remarkable hitters in Captain Norman Lynch and Catcher Holmes. The statistics for the season follow:

	G.	AB.	R.	H.	Pct. Av.

BUMKIN ISLAND TEAM TAKES TWILIGHT GAME

Only a slim crowd turned out for the twilight game, between the Bumkin Island and Radio School nines, on Braves Field. It started punctually at 6 o'clock and was over at 7:35. The Bumkin Island boys went on a mad swat rampage in the seventh inning and thereby landed in front, 4-1.

Wolfram hurled shutout ball in all but the seventh, while Stewart held the Radio School boys runless until the ninth. Cannon and Riordon were the hitting stars. The score:

Radio School	0	0	0	0	0	1
Batteries—Stewart-Murphy; Wolfram-Hand.

WILLIAMS IS OUT WITH ITS FOOTBALL DATES

Williamstown, May 28.—Williams' football schedule for next Fall embraces six games with last year's opponents and two open dates resulting from cancellations by Rensselaer Polytechnic and Middlebury.

Negotiations are under way to obtain Princeton and Brown to fill these dates. The schedule:

Sept. 28, open.
Oct. 5, Hamilton at Clinton, N. Y.; Oct. 12, Cornell at Ithaca; Oct. 19, Union at Williamstown; Oct. 26, Amherst at New York.
Nov. 2, Wesleyan at Williamstown; Nov. 9, open; Nov. 16, Amherst at Amherst.

ST. JOSEPH'S BOYS WIN OVER BEACON A. C. 9-2

The St. Josephs of Somerville defeated the Beacon A. C. by a score of 9 to 2 at Lincoln Park, Somerville. Flynn's home-run in the fifth with two on was the feature. T. Cullinan caught great game. Next Friday St. Joseph and Medford Ramblers will clash in Lincoln Park.

DOUGLAS PARK RECORD HUNG UP BY RANCHER

Louisville, May 28.—G. M. Hendrie's Rancher, six-year-old son of Galveston-Sweet Lavender, cracked the Douglas Park record for a mile and seventy yards when he took the fourth race from Pick, Cook and Arviet. His time, 1:42, eclipsed the old mark by one-fifth of a second.

Grundy found the lightning-fast going to his liking and tied the track record for a mile and one-sixteenth when he annexed the fifth race.

Omar Khayyam Runs Dull Race; Never Up With Leaders

Belmont Park, May 28.—The opening of the Westchester Racing Association's meeting was marked by the first big surprise of the season.

Joseph E. Widener's Trompe la Mort, three-year-old French colt, won the Metropolitan Handicap, defeating Omar Khayyam and Rosmarin. It was the first time the event was won by a three-year-old.

Omar Khayyam, favorite, showed no speed after the start, dropping back at the first furlong pole and never getting up. Rosmarr set the early pace and led to the stretch, where Trompe la Mort forged into the lead and went under the wire a half-length ahead of Old Koenig.

Weary Hugh Jack Hare, Jr., were both scratched. About 15,000 persons were in attendance.

DOUBT TED MEREDITH IS PRISONER OF WAR

Philadelphia, May 28.—Lawson Robertson, coach of the University of Pennsylvania track team, does not believe that Lieutenant Aviator J. J. Meredith, reported to be a prisoner in Germany, is J. Ted Meredith, the former world's champion middle-distance runner.

Robertson says he had a letter from Meredith written two weeks ago, in which the former runner said he was studying and tutoring in the Aviation Corps, had not been over the front line and did not expect to go for at least two months.

There are a number of other former Pennsylvania athletes in Meredith's unit. If anything had happened to Meredith, Pennsylvania authorities say they probably would have been advised.

MOTOR FLYERS IN HUB AND READY FOR GRIND

George Wiley, Frank Corey and Victor Linart, who are to meet in a twenty-mile motorcycle race at the Revere Cycle Track Thursday night, were to start final preparations for the brush this afternoon.

Wiley was the last member of the trio to get in from Newark, N. J., where they have been training since mid April. He reports himself in excellent trim and will be ready for starting the season with a decisive victory.

Manager Butler of the beach oval announced a bulky entry for the amateur events. He was both gratified and surprised by the big response from the simon-pures.

NAVY YARD NINE OFF TO PLAY AT BASE TWO

BROOKS ON WITH KID THOMAS IN ARENA RING

Terrible Terry Out to Even It Up With Philadelphian—McCoy vs. Paddy Owens

CARD AT ARMORY A. A.

Main bout: Terry Brooks of the West End, vs. Charley (Kid) Thomas of Philadelphia, 12 rounds.

Semi-final: Benny McCoy of Baltimore, vs. Paddy Owens of Cambridge, ten rounds.

Second preliminary: Kid Henry of Newark, N. J., vs. Billy Meyers of Boston, ten rounds.

Referees: Larry Conley and Maffit Pinkerton.

Starting time: 8 p. m.

By J. P. MURPHY.

Terry Brooks, rugged newsboy miller, will attempt to reverse what he considers an unjust decision tonight when he goes against Charley (Kid) Thomas of Philadelphia in the feature twelve-round set-to at the Armory A. A.'s weekly entertainment at the Arena.

Brooks and Thomas engaged in a lively skirmish at the Douglas A. C., Chelsea, two weeks ago, and when gentlemen hop over Referee Jack Moore signalled Thomas a winner, although the position of his arms indicated that the bout meant to render a draw verdict.

Regardless of how tonight's bout ends, those who attend are almost certain to witness a performance of the slam-bang variety, with plenty of action from start to finish.

Benny McCoy of Baltimore makes his first appearance in the Hub in the ten-round semi-final. His opponent will be Paddy Owens of Cambridge. McCoy is reputed to be a high-class performer, exceptionally clever and a hard hitter.

Bill Casey of South Boston and Joe Demaries of Franklin will open festivities in an eight-rounder. The second preliminary at ten rounds will bring together Kid Henry of Newark, N. J., and Billy Meyers of Boston.

Chelsea Referee Is Good to Walter Bartlett in His Bout With Billy Carney

Referee Jack Moore of the Douglas A. C., Chelsea, favored Walter Bartlett, willing Lawrence battler, when he declared him the winner over Billy Carney of New Bedford, in what proved to be the feature bout on the card.

Besides outpointing the Lawrence boy most of the way, Carney had Walter on the verge of a knockout twice in the late rounds, but Walter lacked the power to finish his foe or Bartlett was too tough to floor.

Bobby Dyson, of Boston, had outpointed Young Sharkey of Fairhaven in the final number, at eight rounds. Sharkey, who is a sparring partner of Al Shubert, substituted for Al Thomas and did much better than was expected. He made it interesting for Dyson, if nothing else, though never as much as starting a show with the little kayo artist.

Battling McGreavy, who was announced as hailing from South Africa, defeated Kid Patton of Chelsea in the first six-rounder. Because of a sparse gathering, the entertainment was curtailed to three bouts.

DUNDEE IS WAY TOO SPEEDY FOR LONDONER

Philadelphia, May 28.—Johnny Dundee, New York lightweight, won all the way in his six-round bout with Eddie McGoorty of Sydney, Australia, employing his old jumping punch throughout and at times came near floorring his opponent. Morgan missed many of his blows and the few he landed did not have any noticeable effect on Dundee.

GOSSIP OF GLOVELAND
By J. P. MURPHY.

ARTHUR PELKEY, a remnant of the original "white hope" class, and once a resident of Chicopee, has been dug out of the pugilistic scrap heap and is due to meet Jack Dempsey, much-touted Western heavyweight, in a twenty-round bout at Denver tomorrow night.

JOHNNY COULON, former bantamweight champion, has been retained boxing instructor at Camp Travis, Tex.

BILLY ROCHE, New York ring official and one of the best known sporting men in the country, is going to Paris shortly to take up his duties as secretary in the Knights of Columbus headquarters.

JACK KENNEY, matchmaker of the Columbus A. C. of Denver, is endeavoring to get together Charley White, Chicago boys writer, and Ted (Kid) Lewis, world's welterweight champion. If successful, Kenney will put on a twenty-round battle at the Stock Yards Stadium, July 4.

IRISH PATSY CLINE, fast-stepping Indian lightweight, will show in Des Moines, Ia., tonight in a scheduled twelve rounds with Jimmy Hanlon of Denver.

THE DOUGLAS A. C. of Chelsea will be dark next Monday night. The directors have decided to hold their next show June 16.

WALTER BUTLER of Revere, who was to have met Davy Dorsey of Malden in the principal bout at the Commercial A. C. Saturday night, has canceled and Chick West of Holyoke will take his place.

CHARLEY (KID) THOMAS of Philadelphia is an excellent warbler and will undoubtedly favor the fans with one of his selections before his battle with Terry Brooks at the Arena tonight.

DESPITE THE fact that he piloted two losers at the Charles street, Franklin (Young) Britt of New Bedford proved himself a capable second. He handled Billy Carney and Young Sharkey and acquitted himself in admirable style. He was unfortunate in getting the worst of it in the Carney bout.

Chevrolet Is Near Auto Record in Tryout

New York, May 28.—About a score of the star drivers who will compete in the $30,000 Harkness handicap at Sheepshead Bay Speedway on Thursday afternoon (Decoration Day) were out on the track during the morning on the finishing touches for the biggest race of the year. Louis Chevrolet, speedway champion of 1917, who will be his only scratch for, in the 150-mile classic, made the fastest lap, with an average of 115 miles an hour.

The Franco-Swiss demon was eager to better Ralph Mulford's 117-mile-an-hour lap of the day previous, but his mechanician induced him to save up his power for breaking for the big race.

Chevrolet says his car is ready, and that he will overtake the many star drivers, to whom he will allot handicaps, and that he has to shatter his own track record for the distance.

A genuine brush was put on by Chevrolet, De Palma and Dario Resta on one of the laps. Sweeping across the starting line on about even terms, they decided to make a race of it, and for a circuit they sent their cars hurtling over space at more than 110 miles an hour. Each claimed the victory, so close was the finish.

GUNBOAT SMITH SLIPS — LEO HOUCK A WHALING

Lancaster, Pa., May 28.—Gunboat Smith, veteran New York heavyweight, shows no signs of his old-time form and can be easily outpointed Leo Houck in a six-round bout. He had no trouble with the Lancaster boy at any stage of the battle.

BUNTS AND BINGLES
By H. W. LANIGAN.

FRANK SHELLENBACH, 19-year-older, who pulled the game out for the White Sox against the Athletics, strews off the slab in the first exhibition game of the season. Shellenbach's work Milwaukee and Providence last season left a lasting doing great relief work for Colonel Rowland all along the line, and, judged on the form he displayed against Barrow's sluggers, is no false alarm.

* * *

NINE RINGING hits and a lead up to the two-thirds mark was wasted by Leonard lost his effectiveness. Just in anything but the best of balls, and, were Ernie Shore, George Foster and Herb Pennock hanging around, he would be losing, instead of winning.

* * *

CLARENCE ROWLAND'S ism't at all worried over the final outcome of the race. He appears confident the Athletics will come through. Incidentally, it can be inserted, that he is not anticipating a whole lot of trouble from the Red Sox. To hear him tell it, there are several pitchers in the Quaker City league strong, if not stronger, than the Fenway Park machine.

* * *

ROOKIE THORMAHLEN turned in his fourth successive victory for the Yankees, when, incidentally, he gave the fans their third successive lambasting. Red Morton here of a one-hitter game on the Braves' wild work was smacked here, there and everywhere by the Hilltown lads. Two doubles, a triple, a Pechinpaugh and that old war horse, the home run of Ping, the comebacker.

* * *

* * *

VEAN GREGG bore the brunt of the heavy work in the slugging match on Shibe Field and baffled the Browns in the pinches. Jerry Gardner had a field day on the offense. Up three times, officially, he pounded out as many hits, including one of his famed triples, and registered four runs. He never came one blow west for two bases.

* * *

SAM ERWIN MAYER was at his best and the Phils again routed the Reds. Cravath's double was the dangling act of the day.

* * *

THE CUBS pounded Perritt, Anderson and Causey for sixteen hits and Hendrix won his game in a walk. Les Mann, who was nominated by Heinie Zim, went 1,000 with the old slug—four out of four.

* * *

A PASS to Olson, Ivor's steal and Hickman's blow produced the lone counter in the Giants'-Cards' combat in St. Louis.

* * *

THE BRAVES went over again. Cooper, Hoyt Dreyfuss's rookie southpaw, is a comer, is as good as they come, was shaded by Art Nehf while Joe Oeschger and Otto Hess completed the third count. All's well with the Braves and the boys are featured a team welcome when they reach the wigwam Saturday. Fred Mitchell's Cubs open the series, which promises to be the first out-and-out goer the Braves have had for two seasons.

HARVARD MAKES EARLY START FOR DERBY

Varsity Eight, Under Command of Coach Haines, Off Thursday for Yale Race

The Harvard 'varsity eight, chaperoned by Coach Haines, Manager Andrew F. Tribble and Copeland M. Draper, will leave Cambridge Thursday morning for New Haven.

The crew is to meet Yale Saturday in the annual regatta, which, for the first time in many years, will be rowed on a course other than the Thames.

Coach Haines plans four workouts during the stay in New Haven, one late Thursday afternoon, two Friday and one Saturday forenoon.

The men will go from New Haven to Derby for their drills, as the race will be rowed on the Housatonic, which runs through that town.

Rigger Charley Hart is in New Haven today getting things in readiness for the Crimson oars. The Derby boat has been deprived of its thole pins, and has been placed in commission awaiting the Harvard men.

As the same sort of shell, minus the pins, is used at Cambridge, this will prove no handicap to the Crimson in Saturday's race.

TECH FIELD SCENE OF SCHOOL RELAY EVENTS

This afternoon, on Tech Field, Cambridge, the first outdoor relay carnival for the Boston high schools was carded to be held. Many of the schools were to be represented by one relay team in each of the four divisions.

The Boston Latin and High School of Commerce senior mile relay teams were to hook up in the feature event on the card.

WARD TO CHASE HUNS, INSTEAD OF FLY RAPS

John Ward, left fielder of the Harvard 'varsity baseball team, has joined the great number of Crimson athletes who have quit college sports for Uncle Sam's service. Ward passed his examination for the naval aviation service and expects to be sent to a preparing school at once.

IN CORBETT'S CORNER by James J. Corbett.

This is the first of a series of articles which Mr. Corbett is writing concerning the career of the late Frank Gotch, who went to his grave the undefeated heavyweight wrestling champion of the world.

This is a story of Frank Gotch—the greatest wrestler that the world ever produced. A marvel in strength, a marvel in gameness, a marvel in skill, he ever will stand out as a wrestler without a peer in the entire history of the mat sport.

Born in Humboldt, Iowa, April 27, 1878, Gotch developed quickly in a physical way, and almost as soon as he donned long trousers he was regarded as the village strong boy.

In April, 1899, two wrestlers were matched to go on in Humboldt, Ia. One of the contestants failed to appear. Marshall Green, the other wrestler, rather than disappoint the crowd, announced that he would gladly take on any villager in an exhibition bout. Gotch was in the audience and, under urging by his friends, accepted Green's challenge.

GREEN ROUGHLY HANDLED.

Green was a master in the knowledge of the game, and at the outset of the match even the most enthusiastic Gotch supporters figured that their "strong boy" couldn't win. But, to their surprise, Gotch, without much preliminary, picked up the husky Green as he would a bag of hay and threw him to the floor.

Green, maddened by the loss of the first fall, went after Gotch in a furious way with the start of the second fall, but once again he was in a babe in Gotch's arms.

In June, 1899, Gotch attended a picnic in Luverne, Iowa, near Humboldt, and competed in practically all of the athletic events that featured the day's program. His real rival was Jack Taylor, a powerfully built fellow, who gave his name as Reynolds, stating he was in the furniture business in Omaha. Gotch defeated Reynolds in most of the contests, and after the events were over Reynolds feigning a sneering attitude, said:

"The people around here think you are a pretty good sort of an athlete, but I've got it on you as a wrestler. If you don't think so I've got money to back up my statement."

FRANK'S SUPPORTERS RALLY.

Several Humboldt enthusiasts who were standing near at once encouraged Gotch.

The two men stripped to the waist and went to it in the road for more than an hour, when Reynolds trickled Gotch into a fatal hold, and Gotch was pinned in 1 hour and 14 minutes. Reynolds gained the next fall—and the match—in 28 minutes.

QUALITY---TIMKEN CONSTRUCTION

It is a well-known engineering fact that Timken axles are in a class by themselves—the best—

Velie cars have Timken axles, Timken bearings, Timken gears, Timken drive shafts, Timken housings — all Timken—all the best.

You may think you cannot get this construction without paying, at least, $2000 for a car—but you can—get a Velie!

Many manufacturers camouflage. They say "Timken," but have only the bearings and do not have the gears, the axles, the drive shafts, the housings—do not get fooled—insist upon all Timken.

We say again—get a VELIE!

Providence Is Setting Stage for Annual State Shoot

Providence, May 28.—Providence will be the scene of the third annual tournament of the Rhode Island Trapshooters' Association. The dates are June 6, 7 and 8, with the shoot taking place over the traps of the Providence Gun Club.

Fifty targets will be trapped June 6; 150, June 7; and 200, June 8. Lewis Class and Rose systems will prevail.

There will also be four classes, A, B, C and D, in the 16-yard target events, June 7 and 8. Trophies will be awarded the three high guns in each class.

The Interstate Association handicap, 16 to 23 yards, will be shot the morning of June 8. The Handicap Committee will be seated over the shooters in attendance.

SOX PLAN BIG DRIVE IN WEST

Barrow Brigade Take on Senators Next and Then Start Around Circuit

By NICK FLATLEY.

The western invasion of Boston ended today with the closing game of the White Sox series. The Senators arrive here on the morrow for a few contests, and then the Barrows brigade departs out into the West. Success on the trails similar to the triumphs at home will assure the local outfit a very commanding position for the mid-summer drive.

Despite the loss of Ruth when his hitting and pitching were more necessary than ever, the team has held up wonderfully and has fully convinced all critics that it has the material necessary for big things.

Carl Mays was listed to hurl the final game against the champions who had Red Faber and Eddie Cicotte all warmed up, make their farewell pleasant for them.

LEONARD BOMBARDED.

Even they fail to put over a ninth inning rally once in a while. The Red Sox couldn't do it on Red Cross day, and so lost their first game of the season to the champion White Sox by a 6 to 4 count.

They did get a couple of men on in the ultimate chapter and Arlington Dave Shean made a heroic effort to knock them off. But Newton John Collins got in the way of the liner, and that was all.

All the money taken in went to the Red Cross, and the day's receipts, together with $700 taken up in the stands, amounted to approximately $5,500. The weather, as well as New England conduciveness, conspired against the charitable purpose of the game.

Rain in the morning and lowering clouds that threatened more rain in the afternoon kept the crowd down to less than 5,000. It was a very good, Monday crowd, however, all things considered.

The game was one of those nip-and-tuck affairs, and neither Dutch Leonard nor Eddie Cicotte, who started things, were there at the finish. The hostile hero was harshly greeted with three hits right under the guns, and retired after the first frame.

Leonard, who opened up like the star of other years, waited at the end. Going into the eighth he had a one-run lead and a shot if four to tie and another pair to go. Just for luck, the invaders added one more in the ninth.

Mike Fenlon, who succeeded Picotte, pitched cool baseball, and was supported in real championship style by his gang.

RUTH TAKES IN GAME.

Battering Babe Ruth, Governor McCall and other celebrities viewed the contest. The first named appeared as husky and healthy as ever, as he used pattern over from a strange point of vantage in a box.

Huth is anxious to put on his regalia and build up the batting average, but Manager Barrow refuses to let him try until he has positively shaken all signs of his throat trouble.

Relief Joe Bush, who had an inning to warm up in yesterday, was to go long after the enemy today, while Cicotte was anxious for a chance to redeem his poor performance of that first inning. Red Faber was named out in the first game of the series, was the other Rowland possibility.

Yanks Whale Morton, While Thormahlen Baffles Fohls

New York, May 28.—Guy Morton, Cleveland hurler, who held the Red Sox to a lone hit during the Redskins' stay at Fenway Park last week was humbled by Herbert Thormahlen, one of Miller Huggins' rookie pitchers, on the Polo Grounds.

A drizzling rain began falling with the start of the sixth inning and the umpired gave Cleveland all the chance in the world to even up things by not calling the game, but the Polos were not equal to the occasion. The final score was 7 to 1 in favor of the Yankees.

Thormahlen held the Indians hitless until the rain started, and when the pellet got wet they trained him for three singles Chick Fohl a home run, however, was not due to any hitting.

In the sixth frame Thormahlen walked Roth and Pat Wamsganss. Joe Wood sacrificed advancing both runners, and a balk forced in the center.

Not only was Morton hit freely in all but one of the eight innings, but four made two errors fielding his position and failed to make a single putout or assist.

FILLINGIM IS PLACED IN CLASS I OF THE DRAFT

From Pittsburgh comes word that Dana Fillingim, Braves' crack young spit-ball pitcher, who has won three games for the tribe on the Western trip, has been placed in Class 1-A of the draft.

Manager Stallings has shipped Fillingim and Pat Ragan to Brooklyn so that they will be thoroughly rested for the opening games in the series with the Dodgers which opens tomorrow. Infielder Dick Conway, whose mother died at Minneapolis last Friday, has rejoined the club in Pittsburgh.

TECH SWIMMERS ENTER RACES AT OCEAN PIER

Although Tech's regular swimming season is over, a number of its pastimers have signified their intention of entering the New England A. A. A. meet at Ocean Pier Baths Friday. Max Peterson, varsity captain, C. D. Greene, freshman captain, and R. S. Bolan will compete in the 200-yard event, while A. E. Wales, L. J. McGrath and W. H. Young have entered the fifty-yard dash.

Same Old Heinie; He Pulls Rough Play on Chicago Lot

Chicago, May 28.—Heinie Zimmerman, Johnny McGraw's third baseman, who has been subjected to much "booing" during the series between the Giants and Cubs, jammed his clenched fist into Lee Mann's ribs, instead of merely plastering the sphere on some portion of the anatomy, according to Leslie, in making a patout in the third inning of the game on the north side.

It is considered practically a certainty that President Tener of the National League, will give Zimmerman a vacation of ten days or two weeks, and also administer a fine.

The Giants are "in the air" as a result of all their defeats in the West. A victory for the Cubs today and the two teams will be tied for first place, where a fortnight ago it was not thought the Giants would be headed all Summer.

BRAVES TACKLE PIRATES IN FINAL

Hearn and Jacobs Selected to Do Mound Honors in Getaway Game

Pittsburgh, May 28.—Taking the measure of Wilbur Cooper, all-woolen southpaw, qualifies for meeting Boston Braves to be another an outand-out high class baseball team.

Admitting that they got off to an atrociously bad start in the Tenner market, due to Colonel Stallings not assembling the bits of his new model in re properly the Braves on this day and date appear to be equal as strong as any team in the National League and who knows but they will get up as League through.

For today's getaway day battle the carded rival clubmen were Hunny Hearn vs Miller or Jacobs. The Braves' record out West is 9-5 and the fans at home want to recall that they lost three of their first five, in a fast-stepping scrappy-working outfit; and seems set for a highly successful year.

NEHF AT HIS BEST.

It was Art Nehf who got the verdict over the justly renowned Cooper, the one of the most stiffly contested at least of the year on Forbes Field.

It was some battle and even the final score—2 to 1, fails to indicate just how close and exciting the contest was. Cooper had the better of the argument, so far as hits go.

It was the bobbles behind him which cost the game. Nine hits were garnered off Nehf, while only five were made by the Braves.

The fans left just settled back in the seats for a royal contest in the second inning when with two down, Mollwitz muffed Konetchy's easy pop fly.

Next Joe Kelly, a Pirate discard, connecting with one of Cooper's offerings and dented the box between right and centre field. When the ball got back to the infield, Konetchy was on first with his first full and Kelly was roosting on third. Joe was left when Cutshaw grounded to Wilson to end it.

TIMELY DOUBLE BY SMITH.

With one gone in the sixth, Red Smith cracked a double to left. Konetchy rolled a hot one to Caton and the youngster attempted to nail Smith at first but McKechnie was as cop and both Braves were safe. Smith scored on Kelly's out at first.

Pittsburgh got one of the runs back in its half of the frame. With one down, Carey walked, and scored on Hirbman's double. Bill attempted to make third on the hit, but Herzog's relay was accurate and he was a dead bird.

The other play decided the game, for Cutshaw next man up, hit long fly to centre field, on which Hirbman could have scored home.

FULLERTON HAS SISLER GAME'S NEW KING

Baseball Expert Confident Co Is Slowing Up and Puts Brownie on Ty's Throne

By HUGH S. FULLERTON.

Baseball is getting ready to cro a new king and there are a lot wagers being made around t American League circuit that Geo Sisler will this season dethrone Cobb as the premier player of t country.

Ty hasn't been going well and h been hampered by illness almost ev since the season started. He caug a heavy cold early in the Spring an it appears to have affected his sys

Ty is worried and is bucking at himself, and Sisler is coming along as the best ball player in every department of the game.

There is a wide difference of opinion among players regarding the ability of Sisler as a first baseman.

Some of those who have worked against him say he does not know how to handle himself around the base, yet Bender Jones, his manager, who is one of the best judges of players in the world, told me the other day that Sisler plays the base better than any player he ever saw, covers more and throws better and handles his feet much quicker after than any man, except Connie Mack's Hall Chase.

I watched him through four hard games and while he is shifting in and out and moving all the time, the boy appears always in perfect poise.

This Day in History

THIS is the anniversary of the birth of William Pitt, the younger, by many considered England's greatest Prime Minister. It was he whose work brought about the ultimate downfall of Napoleon. Pitt was at 25 the most powerful man in the United Kingdom.

The Development of Hoods

THE cowl, or hood, was originally a covering for the head to protect it from the weather, and was worn by all classes. Its ready adaptation to conceal the features led to its adoption by monks and ascetics. It passed to the cathedral churches and universities.

CIRCUS BETTER AND BIGGER THAN EVER

Numerous Daring Acts and Massive Spectacle Thrills Big Crowds

The Barnum & Bailey Circus is in town, and if any evidence were needed of that fact it could have been found in the crowds that wended their way to the show grounds on Huntington avenue during the first day of its stay.

It is the same old "Greatest Show on Earth," only a little better, a little more exciting than ever before. There is an abundance of entertainment for all conditions and ages from the youngster who begins to tease to be taken to the circus as soon as the first posters on the billboards and in store windows begin to herald its coming to the parent who annually trots out the excuse that he "doesn't care for such things himself, but goes to please the children."

BABY GIRAFFE A FEATURE.

In the menagerie there is a star attraction this year. It is a baby giraffe—less than four months old. Unlike some other babies, there is no question as to who it looks like. He is a replica in miniature of the stately mother that keeps a solicitous eye upon his every motion.

One sturdy little youngster, after eyeing the baby for awhile, firmly planted his feet and with a loud hullabaloo announced that he would not move unless he could take the little fellow home with him where he could tether him in the parlor beside the grand piano.

Under the big top the program opens with an elaborate Chinese pageant—the first attempt to produce anything of its kind in this country—based on the story of "Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp."

To the blare of trumpets and the beautiful princess bride enter at the head of a gorgeous procession of the lords and ladies of the magnificent court of China. They are followed by a throng of courtiers, citizens and slaves. Mounted on elephants, camels and horses the magnificent company marches in a wedding procession.

The finale comes with the wedding ceremony performed in a setting that fills all of the rings and stages of the big tent.

COSTUMES MADE IN CHINA.

The costumes are very attractive and appropriate. They were all made in China and are splendid examples of Oriental embroidery and fabrics.

In the acts that follow there are many novelties and to all of the familiar turns that have been featured in previous years there have been added touches of change and improvement that make them seem almost new.

One of the most thrilling and beautiful of the acts is that of Dainty Marie, "The Venus of the Air," performed in a focus of spotlights high above the centre ring while all the rest of the tent is in darkness. Scarcely less enthralling is the beautiful and difficult act of Miss Bird Millman, "a fairy on a cobweb," as the program calls her. Nor should Signor Bragoni, the man who made all Europe and certainly that part of Boston in the circus tent laugh, be forgotten.

BRINGS TWO CARS OVER THE ROAD FROM RACINE

By C. F. DONNOCKER.

The question of getting cars to Boston is one that occupies the attention of every dealer on the row. Fred H. Lucas of the Mitchell-Lucas Company recently had two expensive Mitchell cars of the closed type driven over the roads from Racine, Wis., to Boston in order to fill two special orders. As these two cars represented quite a little money, approximately $5,000, he selected two of his best drivers—F. J. Glaser and Ira Thomas—to go to Racine and bring the cars to Boston. The story of the trip is quite interesting to automobile users. Mr. Glaser's report is as follows:

"We left the Mitchell factory on May 18 at 12 o'clock, noon, bound for Chicago, and found the roads pretty good, with the exception of about ten miles, which was very sandy. Arrived in Chicago about 5 p. m., mileage from Racine to Chicago 85.

ROADS GOOD AND BAD.

"We left Chicago a little after 5 p. m. Saturday, and journeyed on to South Bend, Indiana, where we arrived at 10:30 p. m., that night; the distance being 105 miles.

"Leaving South Bend at 6 a. m. the following morning, we found good roads for a long stretch, then some rather bad roads, on our way to Cleveland, where we arrived at 11 p. m. The only trouble which we experienced up to this time was one puncture. Distance from South Bend to Cleveland, 275 miles.

"Left Cleveland at 10 a. m., Monday, for Buffalo, and on this run found some very good brick roads in the different villages and towns we drove through. We arrived in Buffalo about 10:30 p. m., covering 179 miles from Cleveland to Buffalo.

BEST PART OF TRIP.

"We left Buffalo shortly after sunrise Tuesday, for Albany, and in making this run we found the best roads of the whole trip thus far. Arrived Albany at 11:20 p. m.; distance 350 miles.

"Left Albany about 5 a. m., Wednesday, homeward bound. As we drove along we could tell by the good roads that we were nearing Massachusetts once more. Passing over Jacob's Ladder, it rained all the way to Westfield. The road over Jacob's Ladder is undergoing repairs at this time, but we got through safely.

"Arrived at Copley square at 4 p. m., Wednesday, May 22, distance from Albany to Boston being 196 miles. We covered a distance of 1,170 miles, all told.

"The gasoline consumption for these two cars on this trip was 168 gallons, and the oil used nineteen quarts."

SAYS COAKLEY GOT $15,000 IN MOTORS CASE

Lawyer Carroll Springs Surprise in Emerson Trial in New York City

By International News Service.

New York, May 28. — Francis M. Carroll, a Boston lawyer, was the main witness of the government in the trial of the Emerson Motors Company in the Federal District Court. He testified that he had been retained by Robert P. Matches, one of the defendants, as attorney for the Robert P. Matches Company, Boston.

Carroll said that he met Amos S. Stephens, counsel for the Emerson Motors Company in October, 1916, in Boston through Matches.

After a visit to the office of District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier, Carroll testified, he received $20,500 in cash from Stevens and paid $15,000 of the money to Daniel H. Coakley.

When asked if he had met Stephens in October, 1916, Carroll said:

"Yes, I met him in my office with Matches."

"State your conversation."

"Mr. Stephens," said Carroll, "asked on that day—I believe it was October 5—what was going on in Boston, and I said that I couldn't see that there was anything going on. Matches had spoken of an investigation, but I couldn't see it. e

"Stephens said he wanted to make sure about it, and I said I had gone as far as I could, but that we could find out for sure from Coakley, a friend of the district attorney's, and if there was anything going on in that office he would know of it.

WENT TO SEE COAKLEY.

"I saw Coakley and reported to Matches and Stephens that Coakley had said such an investigation was going on. They said they wanted to see Coakley, and we went up there."

Carroll said that while the conference was on in Coakley's office, Stephens expressed a desire to talk with the district attorney and that he accompanied Coakley, Stephens and Matches to Mr. Pelletier's office.

The witness also said it was evident from the district attorney's attitude that an investigation of the sale of Emerson stock in Boston was going on.

WANTED SOMETHING DONE.

Carroll then told of still another conference on the same day in Coakley's office, where Stephens expressed the opinion that there was certainly something wrong in Boston and asked if anything could be done in the matter.

"Coakley then said he ought to be paid a retaining fee of $500.

"Then he said: 'If I am successful in getting this other pigeon-holed my fee will be $20,000.'

Stephens, on October 5, said the witness, drew a check in Carroll's office and counted out $20,500 in cash on a desk.

Carroll said that he paid the $500 retainer fee to Coakley on that day and the balance of $20,000 was deposited to Carroll's account in a Boston bank.

The next day, on the telephone, said Carroll, District Attorney Pelletier told the investigation of the Emerson stocks sales in Boston had been dropped.

SAYS HE PAID COAKLEY $15,000.

As soon as he received this assurance, Carroll said, he went to Coakley and asked him what he (Carroll) owed him, and Coakley replied $15,000. This was paid by Carroll by check, according to testimony.

"What work did you do to earn your $5,000?" asked Judge Martin T. Manton.

"Very little, Your Honor," was the reply.

"Did you feel that you had earned $5,000?"

"Yes, sir. I felt that it was all right for me to accept it."

On cross-examination the witness stuck to his original story surrounding the payment of the $20,500 to Coakley and himself, and declared that no one else received any of the money.

CHILDREN'S CARNIVAL AT SHEPARD STORES

This is children's week at the Shepard stores. The management is keeping open house for all the kiddies of Greater Boston who are fortunate enough to visit the stores during the next few days.

Wherever one goes through the building there will be found pets from the barnyard, some of them almost exactly like the guinea pigs, dogs and rabbits of grandfather's farm. Then there are the animals which we have met at the circus and the zoo: cages of lively monkeys, squirrels, prairie dogs and a live American bison, and a baby donkey with its adoring mamma which has come from Norumbega Park to meet the boys and girls of Boston.

For the little tots there is a sandbox, where they can satisfy their architectural abilities, while their brothers and sisters look at Charlie Chaplin, and the domestic troubles of Fatty and Mabel.

And all the time the hurdy-gurdy man and the hand-organ man vie in filling the air with music, while from way down Maine who can whistle like a bird, excites the wonder of young and old, who watches it in open-mouthed admiration.

A pretty little Hawaiian girl, Princess Kalanianaole Kawing, dressed in native costume, delights every one who hears her with quaint songs and dances.

Of course, it is natural to get hungry after all these sights, so a tea party especially for the children will be given every afternoon in the entertainment garden.

REPORT HARVARD MAN IS KILLED IN ACTION

Tuxedo Park, N. Y., May 28.—Mrs. Richard Mortimer has received a cablegram from France, saying her son, Richard, Jr., an aviator, was killed May 22. No details were given. Mrs. Mortimer is a widow. The family has been identified with large New York interests for three generations. Richard, Jr., was a Harvard graduate, class of 1911, and a member of the Knickerbocker, Racquet and Tennis and Tuxedo Clubs.

Calls on American Mothers to Save Babies' Lives

Washington, May 28.—As casualty lists increase in length, it is imperative for American children to cut down the "present appalling infant mortality rate," Miss Julia Lathrop, chief of the Children's Bureau, says in a message to the women of America.

"America's second year of war is known to us as 'children's year,'" Miss Lathrop says. "It is our aim in this period to make good as far as possible by conserving life at home because of the tremendous sacrifices American must make in the trenches as her contribution to world democracy.

"One of the mottoes we have set for ourselves in this campaign is the saving of 100,000 infant lives, which means one-third reduction in the present rate of child mortality. The first step and the fundamental step in accomplishing this ambition is the weighing and measuring campaign now being conducted in many parts of the country."

U-BOAT FAILS, SAYS GERMAN LEADER

By JOHN McHUGH STUART.
Staff Correspondent of International News Service.

Washington, May 28.—Matthias Erzberger, leader of the Catholic Centrist party in Germany, declares that the submarine warfare is a failure. In an article printed in Germania for May 23 and just called here, he says that a peace by compromise and understanding is more vitally necessary to Germany than it ever was.

In the same article he bitterly attacks the militarists and the politicians of the Koelnische Volks Zeitung school. Yet dispatches received through diplomatic channels reveal that Erzberger is almost alone in this stand in Germany. A large wing of his own party is reported to have deserted him.

A summary of German press comment shows that only the Socialist papers take serious notice of President Wilson's pledge to stand by Russia. The rest either ignore it or laugh at it.

Erzberger was stung to speech by the attacks on him from members of his own party and especially by the Koelnische Volks Zeitung. He declares that he stands by all the declarations for a moderate peace he has ever made in the Reichstag and in the committees.

"To believe that the present war has no other aims than the rectification of the frontier," he says, "is showing very little common sense and reflection at a time when the range of our cannon covers all of the small and even the middle-sized States of the confederation and when aviation has taken such a fabulous development.

"I consider that the politicians of the Koelnische Volks Zeitung are a plague on Germany and shall take every occasion to fight them. No forecast, and no amount of hope taken from the enemy is big enough to counterbalance the blood shed by Germany."

Of the submarine warfare, Erzberger says:

"I foretold for the first time that it was bound to fail and the results have confirmed my skepticism.

"The political consequences of this war, which my opponents make little of, were exposed by me as early as October, 1916, during the debates in the main committee of the Reichstag.

"I declared then that war with the United States would be the inevitable consequence and that other neutral countries would also declare war against us.

"My declarations in July, 1917, concerning the submarine war were reinforced and even more.

"The point of view I defended concerning the approximate figures given on the efficiency of the submarine war has been confirmed all along and will go on being confirmed.

BILL TO RAISE STATE INCOME TAX IS PASSED

Acting under the spur of a summary warning by Governor McCall, the State Senate reconsidered and then passed to be engrossed the bill providing for a ten per cent. increase in the income tax.

The bill had been killed by the Senate last week. After Governor McCall sent in his special message demanding the enactment of some equitable taxation legislation, the Senate reconsidered and passed it by a vote of 22 to 2.

Members of the upper branch said informally that the bill was killed by Senator Brooks Quimby's motion in his mistake after Governor McCall sent his message to them. The inference could be plainly drawn that he would not allow the Legislature to go prorogued until it had enacted some effective bill.

HENRY CLAY PETERS IS VINDICATED

On March 5th, 1913, Henry Clay Peters was arraigned before Judge Lawton in the Superior Criminal Court, charged with the larceny of $1,250 from Jeremiah and Mary Shea, of No. 24 Bank street, Somerville. He had been extradited from Texas, where he was established in the banking publicity business.

Peters was brought to trial on April 23rd, last, and the Superior Criminal Court of Suffolk County, before Judge Lawton and a jury. After an eight days' presentation of the evidence, the jury brought in a verdict of acquittal.

A suit for $2,000 damages, brought by Mary Shea, one of the complainants in the criminal case, was tried before Judge Hitchcock and a jury in the Superior Civil Court in session on May 13 to 15 and resulted in a verdict for Mr. Peters.

On March 5, 1918, relying upon the accuracy of assertions hastily published concerning Mr. Peters, the AMERICAN made statements about incidents of his life which the verdicts in court herein mentioned appear to have disproved.

The AMERICAN is always sorry to be in error and is always willing to correct errors when they are called to its attention. We regret the mistake concerning Mr. Peters.

The United States Does Not Want Another Aaron Burr, Mr. Roosevelt--Take Heed

MR. ROOSEVELT'S long and rambling letter to Senator Poindexter proves nothing so much as a certain mental and moral deterioration of the former President.

In that letter Mr. Roosevelt accuses the President of being incompetent; accuses the President of playing vicious politics; accuses the President of tolerating and encouraging disloyalty and sedition in the interest of his personal ambitions; accuses the President of being a tyrant who suppresses free speech and free printing, and who threatens with destruction any person or any publication that criticizes him or his doings—and bases these grave and serious charges upon the ground that the President has not suppressed the Hearst newspapers for differing with the President on certain matters and on certain occasions.

The President is a tyrant who suppresses free speech and free criticism because he did NOT suppress free speech and free criticism, but permitted free speech and free criticism in the Hearst papers at a time when the United States was at peace with Germany and all the rest of the world—and when the President had neither right, reason nor authority to suppress them.

That is Mr. Roosevelt's argument.

The bare statement shows the childish mental processes of Mr. Roosevelt in his old age.

Since Mr. Roosevelt seems to be no longer capable of stating facts fairly, or of expressing himself incisively, we will do the job for him. We will sum up briefly and clearly the points he attempts to make in his attack upon the President and upon the Hearst papers:

Mr. Roosevelt asserts:

1. That the President has punished newspapers which upheld the war, but told the truth about the President's inefficient conduct of the war.

2. That the President has tolerated, encouraged and assisted newspapers which opposed the war and aided Germany, but upheld the President and defended his inefficiency.

3. That the proof of these grave and serious accusations lies in the fact that Mr. George Creel, head of the Committee on Public Information, severely rebuked the Metropolitan Magazine for printing an article written by Mr. Hard, and did not rebuke the New Republic, a magazine to which Mr. Hard also contributes.

4. That the President suppressed Tom Watson's paper for opposing the draft, and did not suppress the Hearst papers.

5. That the President, through Mr. Burleson, is aiding the publication of German language papers, by maintaining a special bureau to show such papers how they can escape suppression.

These are, as fairly as it is possible to state them, the charges which Mr. Roosevelt brings against the President. The first two charges are serious charges. If they were true, the President would deserve impeachment. But, of course, they are not true. Mr. Roosevelt's own attempts to prove their truth only make their falsity more clearly evident.

In th first place, Mr. George Creel did rebuke, and very properly did rebuke, the Metropolitan Magazine, the Kansas City Star, the New York Tribune and Collier's Weekly—not because they criticized Mr. Wilson and are opposed to Mr. Wilson politically, but because, both indirectly and by direct statement, they told ABSOLUTE FALSEHOODS about the conduct of the war and the policies of the nation.

It is very true, too, that the New Republic was not rebuked. The simple explanation of that is that the New Republic printed nothing that was false, that its comments have always been dignified, constructive and fair.

Mr. Roosevelt's contention that the New Republic ought to have been punished for printing perfectly unobjectionable articles written by Mr. Hard because the Metropolitan Magazine was rebuked for printing an article by the same writer that was offensively objectionable simply shows the present incapacity of Mr. Roosevelt to reason on straight lines or to be fair in argument. No man with ordinary good sense and a decent share of fairness in his make-up needs to be told that this "proof" produced by Mr. Roosevelt is simply ridiculous. A child ought not to be deceived by such shifty and contemptible tactics.

Mr. Roosevelt's second "proof" is that Tom Watson's paper was suppressed for opposing the draft and the Hearst papers were not suppressed.

The answer to that is brief:

Tom Watson's paper DID oppose the draft.

The Hearst papers did NOT oppose the draft.

On the contrary, the Hearst papers actively and vigorously favored the draft. The Hearst papers circulated petitions and secured over a million signatures in support of the draft, which they presented to Congress. The Hearst papers earnestly and persistently appealed to Congress to pass the draft law, and Mr. Hearst personally went to Washington and wrote, in the Washington Post, over his own signature, urging his former associates in Congress to support the draft. All this time Mr. Roosevelt was doing his selfish best to bring disrepute upon the draft by urging that a division of volunteers be formed, and that he be appointed a sort of glorified recruiting commander to raise this division and personally lead it to France, although his military experience had been confined to shooting a fleeing Spaniard in the back on the slopes of Kettle Hill in Cuba.

So much for Mr. Roosevelt's second "proof."

Mr. Roosevelt's third "proof" is the allegation that the Postmaster-General maintains a special bureau to help German language papers evade suppression.

The plain truth about this is that the government has found some German language newspapers to be very useful vehicles with which to spread patriotic information and American propaganda among aliens who cannot read English, and has taken advantage of this fact by using the columns of these papers, and has, at the same time, maintained a strict surveillance over all their utterances.

The German language newspapers which have shown themselves to be willing to aid the national cause have been advised as to their conduct and their matter, and anybody can readily see the good sens of using this excellent method of getting good American propaganda and advice set before hundreds of thousands of alien residents who could not be reached otherwise than by the medium of their own language.

So much for Mr. Roosevelt's third—and last—"proof" in support of his accusation that——

During the last year the administration has shown itself anxious to punish the newspapers which upheld the war, but which told the truth about the administration's failure to conduct the war efficiently; whereas it has failed to proceed against various powerful newspapers which opposed the war or attacked our allies or directly or indirectly aided Germany against this country, as those papers upheld the administration and defended its inefficiency.

It does seem incredible that any public or private person could bring such serious accusations against the President of the United States and his Cabinet, and then offer in substantiation such petty and contemptible—and, we are bound to say, untruthful—evidence.

A more ridiculous anti-climax, a more absurd and grotesque failure than this advertised assault upon the integrity and the patriotism of the President has never been witnessed in this country.

It is a pity that Mr. Roosevelt cannot see himself as others see him.

We do not wish to pose as defending the President. The President does not need any defence against Mr. Roosevelt's peevish fault-finding.

Neither do we speak as defending Mr. Burleson. Mr. Burleson has proved that he is amply able to defend himself. His brief, logical and cutting reply to Mr. Roosevelt would shame a fair-minded man into an apology for a mean and utterly unjustifiable attack such as that made by Mr. Roosevelt.

Having said this much about Mr. Roosevelt's assault upon the integrity and patriotism of the President and his official associates, we will now deal briefly with Mr. Roosevelt's equally malignant, untruthful assaults upon the motives, the conduct and the patriotism of the Hearst newspapers.

We shall state Mr. Roosevelt's charges seriatim and answer each in its order.

Stripped of verbiage and gasconade and whining about his own grievances, Mr. Roosevelt's accusations and innuendoes against the Hearst papers are as follows:

Mr. Roosevelt charges that prior to America's declaration of war the Hearst papers advocated a strict observance of neutrality and an equally firm resistance to all aggressions upon our neutrality and upon our rights to use the seas freely, no matter which of the belligerents committed those aggressions.

We reply that we did advocate that very policy. And so did the President. And so did the great majority of the American people.

Mr. Roosevelt charges that prior to our declaration of war the Hearst papers advocated the policy of keeping out of the war.

We reply that we did advocate keeping out of the war until we were sufficiently prepared to make war effectively. But we also advocated daily and had advocated for many years the creation of the greatest navy in the world and the creation of the greatest auxiliary navy in the world through government-owned merchant ships and the formation of the greatest citizen army in the world through universal service and the education of an ample supply of officers through government universities like West Point and Annapolis, established throughout the whole United States.

If the urgent advocacy of the Hearst papers had been heeded we would have entered the war with overwhelming naval and military forces immediately available, and, indeed, so formidable would have been our preparations that the mere threat of any intervention would have been sufficient to secure the recognition of our just demands without in all probability the need of blood sacrifice.

Mr. Roosevelt charges that the Hearst papers condoned the sinking of the Lusitania and did not consider that a cause for our declaring war.

Our reply is that the Hearst papers did not condone the sinking of the Lusitania, but denounced that cruel act, over and over again, as a brutal crime and a monstrous offence against the sentiment of mankind. The first half of this accusation is a falsehood, and Mr. Roosevelt knows that it is a falsehood.

As to the second half of the accusation—that is, that we did not consider the sinking of the Lusitania, horrible crime though it was, a cause for our declaring war, we reply that that was THE PRECISE VIEW taken by the President and by the majority of our citizens at that time. And the proof is that we did not declare war then, not until two years afterward, and that, two years after the sinking of the Lusitania, the President appealed to the people for re-election on the ground that he had kept the country out of war, and the people did re-elect him upon that ground.

Mr. Roosevelt knows that these are true statements. He knows, too, that his attempt to single out the Hearst papers, as though they had stood alone in this matter, instead of standing, as they did, with the President and the majority of the American people, is a mean and contemptible effort to trade upon public forgetfulness, unworthy of a man of honor.

Mr. Roosevelt charges that the New York American printed the President's Memorial Day proclamation with the paragraph containing the prayer for victory omitted.

Our reply is that in one edition of one newspaper among the many newspapers which Mr. Hearst owns, with their many editions, this unfortunate error did occur through the carelessness of a subordinate editor.

We paid little attention to this accusation while it was made only by a newspaper competitor noted for its lack of any sense of decency or any regard for fairness and truthfulness, but now that Mr. Roosevelt has become the New York Tribune's messenger boy to carry its falsehoods to the pages of the Congressional Record and to publicity which the sparse circulation of the Tribune could not give, we shall make this matter clear, once for all, to the satisfaction of all fair-minded persons.

The President's Memorial Day proclamation was handed to Washington correspondents and news bureaus on Saturday, May 11, to be sent out over the country. As customary, the Hearst service, known as the International News Service, put the message on the wires in the evening for transmission to all newspapers taking the Hearst service—including, of course, the Hearst papers themselves.

The message was sent IN FULL and was printed IN FULL in every edition of every Hearst paper, with the sole exception of one edition of the New York American—and that omission occurred in this way, which every newspaper man will readily understand:

The message was printed complete in the earlier editions on an inside page, but the editor-in-chief, desiring to give greater prominence to the message, left instructions before he went home to reset the message in larger type and transfer it to an allotted space on the first page. This the subordinate editor proceeded to do, but when the reset message came to hand just before the last edition was going to press, the subordinate editor found that the message did not fit the allotted space, and in order to make it fit, he hurriedly and stupidly cut out a paragraph, which happened to be the paragraph which certainly should not have been omitted.

We must confess that the most diabolical ingenuity could not have selected lines to cut out which could have caused more editorial dismay than did the perverse stupidity of this particular sub-editor.

That this omission was wholly unintentional and unavoidable is shown by the fact that the Hearst papers have not only printed this and every other proclamation of the President complete in their pages, but have printed this and other speeches, messages and proclamation of the President by the hundreds of thousands, illuminated with flags in color and with the President's portrait, on fine paper for framing, and have distributed these de luxe impressions free in the schools, in the shops and to libraries and patriotic societies with the sole object of preserving the President's notable sentiments and inspiring patriotic devotion among our people.

To ascribe the accident of omission in the one instance of one edition to bad motives or premeditated disloyalty is as cowardly as it is unworthy, and the attempt to connect Mr. Hearst with this omission, when he was under orders to relinquish business cares at Mount Clemens, Michigan, when it occurred, is doubly cowardly and doubly unworthy.

But Mr. Roosevelt's attack upon the Hearst papers and upon Mr. Hearst is of no importance to the Hearst papers, of no importance to Mr. Hearst, and of no importance to the community.

The matter which is of serious importance to the people of the United States is the series of unprincipled and unpatriotic attacks which Mr. Roosevelt is purposefully and persistently making against the Government of the United States in war times.

These attacks, savagely and sensationally made, are hampering to our Government, harmful to the morale of our military and naval establishments, disheartening to our people and disgraceful to our country.

If there is any act of any individual citizen of the United States which can help and hearten Germany in this hour of its discouragement and impending disaster it is the conspicuous and continued action of an ex-President of the United States who advertises his partisan hostility to the plan and purpose of the established Government of the United States and does his worst to discredit the Governmental Administration of the United States and to demoralize the military organization of the United States.

For what could any open enemy of our nation do more to harm our country and our cause than to spread dissension among our people, arouse distrust of our Government, create doubt and discouragement among our military forces and incite insubordination against authority at a time when unity, harmony and loyalty are essential to our successful conduct of this great war.

No conspicuous American public man has behaved with such squalid selfishness, with such disloyal disregard of the best interests of our country since Aaron Burr, and if Mr. Roosevelt does not desist he will divide the discreditable place in American history which Aaron Burr has hitherto occupied alone.

New York State does not want another Aaron Burr, Mr. Roosevelt.

The United States does not want another Aaron Burr, Mr. Roosevelt.

TAKE HEED IN TIME.

The Invincible Three
